SONG IN THE FAËRIE WOOD Dorothy Blair Jeffers, 2010-07-13 Deep in the faerie wood a young fairy dances under the moon When a family conflict exiles her to the freezing winter a forbidden friendship is her only hope for survival Her courage and determination to follow love could cost her all she has treasured but the song of the faerie holds the power to awaken her heart with new wings of freedom The lyrical style of the poetry portrays the fairy's world while the prose tells of the human world As the story progresses the two worlds begin to blend A Harkins Skillfully told and beautifully written A delightful story A Nalls PhD *Longfellow's Hiawatha and Evangeline, with notes by R.G. Albrecht Altdorfer and the Origins of Landscape Christopher S. Wood,2013-07-15 In the early sixteenth century Albrecht Altdorfer promoted landscape from its traditional role as background to its new place as the focal point of a picture His paintings drawings and etchings appeared almost without warning and mysteriously disappeared from view just as suddenly In Albrecht Altdorfer and the Origins of Landscape Christopher S Wood shows how Altdorfer transformed what had been the mere setting for sacred and historical figures into a principal venue for stylish draftsmanship and idiosyncratic painterly effects At the same time his landscapes offered a densely textured interpretation of that quintessentially German locus the forest interior This revised and expanded second edition contains a new introduction revised bibliography and fifteen additional illustrations

Songs of the Empty Place James F. Weiner,Don Niles,2015-07-13 For 31 months between 1979 and 1995 James F Weiner conducted anthropological research amongst the Foi people in Southern Highlands Province Papua New Guinea This book contains the transcriptions translations and descriptions of the songs he recorded The texts of women s sago songs obedobora men s ceremonial songs sorohabora and women s sorohabora are included Men turn the prosaic content of women's sago songs into their own sorohabora songs which are performed the night following large scale inter community pig kills called dawa. While women sing sago songs by themselves men sing their ceremonial songs in groups of paired men. Women also have their own ceremonial versions of such songs. The songs are memorial in intent; they are designed to commemorate the lives of men who are no longer living. Most commonly they do so by naming the places the deceased inhabited during his lifetime. These song texts and translations are introduced by Weiner. Ethnomusicologist Don Niles then brings together information about each type of song and considers these Foi genres in relation to those of neighbouring groups, highlighting aspects of regional performance styles. Consideration is also given to the poetic devices used in Papua New Guinea songs. Eighteen recordings illustrating the Foi genres discussed in this book are available for download. It remains uncertain how such songs may be affected by the major oil extraction project that has been undertaken in the region for more than two decades. This book will interest students of anthropology, ethnomusicology, linguistics, verbal art, aesthetics and cultural heritage.
