experience there embedded A good reader is an author's best fortune for the writer strives in vain unless he be understood The reader's own experience is the key to literature It may be direct experience events and passions personal to himself or it may be indirect events and passions observed in the career of others or at least learned by report but in any case the power to understand indirect experience that is experience not one's own depends on the existence of a common human nature and on the share of it which the reader has already realized in his own life and self consciousness About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Appreciation of literature George Edward Woodberry, 1921 Appreciation of Literature, and America in Literature (Classic Reprint) George Edward Woodberry, 2017-12-18 Excerpt from Appreciation of Literature and America in Literature Literature is the foremost of the humanities of those instrumentalities by which man becomes more completely human and in the individual this end is furthered in proportion as he understands human nature in others under its various modes and brings forth from it in him self the richest experience of its capacities Openness to experience or sensibility is the prime quality of the good reader and to this the writer adds on the active or creative side the power of expression through language These two faculties are the essential constituents of literary genius About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Appreciation of Literature Wordsworth Collection, George Edward 1855-1930 Woodberry, 2016-05-04 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved
