The Archaeology Of Benin Excavations And Other Researches In And Around Benin City Nigeria:

The Archaeology of Benin Graham Connah, 1975 Mit 48 Bildtafelseiten im Anhang The Benin Plaques Kathryn Wysocki Gunsch, 2017-12-15 The 16th century bronze plaques from the kingdom of Benin are among the most recognized masterpieces of African art and yet many details of their commission and installation in the palace in Benin City Nigeria are little understood The Benin Plaques A 16th Century Imperial Monument is a detailed analysis of a corpus of nearly 850 bronze plaques that were installed in the court of the Benin kingdom at the moment of its greatest political power and geographic reach By examining European accounts Benin oral histories and the physical evidence of the extant plaques Gunsch is the first to propose an installation pattern for the series The Oxford Handbook of African Archaeology Peter Mitchell, Paul Lane, 2013-07-04 This Handbook provides a comprehensive synthesis of African archaeology covering the entirety of the continent's past from the beginnings of human evolution to the archaeological legacy of European colonialism It includes a mixture of key methodological and theoretical issues and debates and situates the subject's contemporary practice Ideology and the Formation of Early States, 2023-09-20 Eighteen authors from 10 countries offer an assessment of the role of ideology in the emergence and development of early states In a comparative perspective the significance of ideology in the processes that led to formation of states in Europe Africa Meso America and Polynesia is discussed by specialists in the fields of anthropology history and archaeology Special attention is given to subjects such as the concept of ideology regional comparison the reconstruction of ideologies on the basis of archaeological data gender relationships coercion legitimacy sacred kingship and ideology and change in an introductory chapter and a concluding discussion The findings of this volume will not only be of interest to anthropologists historians and archaeologists but to all those interested in the complex interaction of ideological and political developments Materialities of Ritual in the Black Atlantic Akinwumi Ogundiran, Paula Saunders, 2014-10-03 Focusing on everyday rituals the essays in this volume look at spheres of social action and the places throughout the Atlantic world where African descended communities have expressed their values ideas beliefs and spirituality in material terms The contributors trace the impact of encounters with the Atlantic world on African cultural formation how entanglement with commerce commodification and enslavement and with colonialism emancipation and self rule manifested itself in the shaping of ritual acts such as those associated with birth death healing and protection Taken as a whole the book offers new perspectives on what the materials of rituals can tell us about the intimate processes of cultural transformation and the dynamics of the human condition Understanding Early Civilizations Bruce G. Trigger, 2003-05-05 This book offers the first detailed comparative study of the seven best documented early civilizations ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia Shang China the Aztecs and adjacent peoples in the Valley of Mexico the Classic Maya the Inka and the Yoruba Unlike previous studies equal attention is paid to similarities and differences in their sociopolitical organization economic systems religion and culture Many of this study's findings are surprising and provocative

Agricultural systems technologies and economic behaviour turn out to have been far more diverse than was expected These findings and many others challenge not only current understandings of early civilizations but also the theoretical foundations of modern archaeology and anthropology The key to understanding early civilizations lies not in their historical connections but in what they can tell us about similarities and differences in human behaviour A Fistful of Shells Toby

Green,2019-03-21 By the time the Scramble for Africa among European colonial powers began in the late nineteenth century Africa had already been globally connected for centuries Its gold had fueled the economies of Europe and the Islamic world for nearly a millennium and the sophisticated kingdoms spanning its west coast had traded with Europeans since the fifteenth century Until at least 1650 this was a trade of equals using a variety of currencies most importantly cowrie shells imported from the Maldives and nzimbu shells imported from Brazil But as the slave trade grew African kingdoms began to lose prominence in the growing global economy We have been living with the effects of this shift ever since With A Fistful of Shells Toby Green transforms our view of West and West Central Africa by reconstructing the world of these kingdoms which revolved around trade diplomacy complex religious beliefs and the production of art Green shows how the slave trade led to economic disparities that caused African kingdoms to lose relative political and economic power The concentration of money in the hands of Atlantic elites in and outside these kingdoms brought about a revolutionary nineteenth century in Africa parallel to the upheavals then taking place in Europe and America Yet political fragmentation following the fall of African aristocracies produced radically different results as European colonization took hold Drawing not just on written histories but on archival research in nine countries art oral history archaeology and letters Green lays bare the transformations that have shaped world politics and the global economy since the fifteenth century and paints a new and masterful portrait of West Africa past and present Africa's Buildings Itohan I. Osayimwese,2025-09-23 A groundbreaking history of Africa's looted architectural heritage and a bold proposal for the repatriation of the continent's stolen cultural artifacts Between the nineteenth century and today colonial officials collectors and anthropologists dismembered African buildings and dispersed their parts to museums in Europe and the United States Most of these artifacts were cataloged as ornamental art objects which erased their intended functions and the removal of these objects often had catastrophic consequences for the original structures Africa's Buildings traces the history of the collection and distribution of African architectural fragments documenting the brutality of the colonial regimes that looted Africa's buildings and addressing the ethical questions surrounding the display of these objects Itohan Osayimwese ranges across the whole of Africa from Egypt in the north to Zimbabwe in the south and spanning the western central and eastern regions of the continent She describes how collectors employed violent means to remove elements such as columns and door panels from buildings and how these methods differentiated architectural collecting from conventional collecting She shows how Western collectors mischaracterized building components as ornament erasing their architectural character and concealing the evidence of their theft

Osayimwese discusses how the very act of displacing building parts like floor tiles and woven screen walls has resulted in a loss of knowledge about their original function and argues that because of these removals scholars have yet to fully grasp the variety and character of African architecture Richly illustrated Africa's Buildings uncovers the vast scale of cultural displacement perpetrated by the West and proposes a new role for museums in this history one in which they champion the repatriation of Africa's architectural heritage and restitution for African communities From Cambridge to Lake Chad: Life in archaeology 1956-1971 Graham Connah,2019-01-31 Graham Connah's autobiography offers both a professional and personal account that traces his archaeological training and employment at Cambridge and his practical experience on British excavations and explains how he became one of the pioneers of Nigerian archaeology during a decade in that country

Encyclopedia of African History Kevin Shillington,2005 Offers more than one thousand entries covering all aspects of African history civilization and culture Working the Diaspora Frederick C. Knight,2012-08-22 From the sixteenth to early nineteenth century four times more Africans than Europeans crossed the Atlantic Ocean to the Americas While this forced migration stripped slaves of their liberty it failed to destroy many of their cultural practices which came with Africans to the New World In Working the Diaspora Frederick Knight examines work cultures on both sides of the Atlantic from West and West Central Africa to British North America and the Caribbean Knight demonstrates that the knowledge that Africans carried across the Atlantic shaped Anglo American agricultural development and made particularly important contributions to cotton indigo tobacco and staple food cultivation The book also compellingly argues that the work experience of slaves shaped their views of the natural world Broad in scope clearly written and at the center of current scholarly debates Working the Diaspora challenges readers to alter their conceptual frameworks about Africans by looking at them as workers who through the course of the Atlantic slave trade and plantation labor shaped the development of the Americas in significant ways Africa's Urban Past David Anderson,Richard Rathbone,2000 A selection of papers first delivered at the conference on Africa's Urban Past held at the School of Oriental and African Studies University of London 1996

Ethnic Ambiguity and the African Past Francois G Richard,Kevin C MacDonald,2016-07 Authors engage with contemporary anthropological historical and archaeological perspectives to examine how ideas of self understanding belonging and difference in ancient Africa were made and unmade in their intersection with other salient domains of social experience states landscapes discourses memory technology politics and power Power, Political Economy, and Historical Landscapes of the Modern World Christopher DeCorse,2019-04-01 Reveals how the expanding world system entangled the non Western world in global economies yet did so in ways that were locally articulated varied and often non European in their expression This interdisciplinary volume brings together a richly substantive collection of case studies that examine European indigene interactions economic relations and their materialities in the formation of the modern world Research has demonstrated the extent and complexity of the varied local economic and political systems and diverse social formations that predated
