The Disabled Their Parents:

The Disabled and Their Parents Leo F. Buscaglia, 1975 Professional Collaboration with Parents of Children with Disabilities Louise Porter, Susan McKenzie, 2000-10-23 The work of professionals with children with disabilities affects the children's family while events at home affect what professionals can achieve with the children This text describes how professionals can form collaborative relationships with the parents of the children in their care to optimise the children's development and to enable both family members and professionals to work in the children's interests It describes experiences of families who have a child with a disability and takes a new look at old assumptions that disability necessarily has a negative effect on families or that families themselves are in need of therapy simply by virtue of having a child with additional needs This text offers practical insights and guidelines for action by teachers occupational therapists physiotherapists speech pathologists and psychologists It is a practical text that enables practitioners to offer a high quality service to children while supporting the family in its role of nurturing their child with special needs The Disabled

Child's Participation Rights Anne-Marie Callus, Ruth Farrugia, 2016-03-02 The United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities is the only UN treaty to date in which the people who are its target that is disabled people were actively involved in its drafting and the only one which requires the active participation of disabled people in its implementation This does not of course automatically guarantee the direct participation of all disabled people This is especially so for children with disabilities whose status as legal minors may inhibit them from participating in decisions affecting their lives This book focuses on the participation rights of the disabled child with regard to health education homelife and relationships highlighting ways in which these rights are safeguarded and promoted throughout the EU as well as exploring the factors that put these rights at risk Finally this groundbreaking text analyses whether disabled children's needs for assistance in order to realise their participation rights results in fewer opportunities to participate or in an increase in support in order for them to be able to do so Growing up with Parents who have Learning Difficulties Tim

Booth, Wendy Booth, 2005-08-10 Growing up with Parents who have Learning Difficulties uses a life story approach to present new evidence about how children from such families manage the transition to adulthood and about the longer term outcomes of such an upbringing It offers a view of parental competence as a social attribute rather than an individual skill assessing the implications for institutional policies and practices The authors address the notion of children having to parent their disabled parents and argue for a shift in emphasis from protecting children to supporting families This innovative book provides a fresh approach to a subject rife with prejudice and challenges us to think again about many taken for granted ideas about the process of parenting and the needs of children It also demonstrates the power of narrative research and its capacity for bringing alive people's experience in a way that enables us to better understand their lives My Disabled
