Emotional Motives in International Relations Rupert Brodersen, 2018-05-16 The study of emotions in International Relations is gaining wide spread attention Within the emotional turn in IR the emotion of rage however has not been given sufficient attention instead being used as short hand for irrationality and excess Rage is arguably one of the oldest and most destructive emotions in human affairs This book offers an innovative approach that seeks to split rage into its traditional manifestation of aggression and violence and into a less visible passive manifestation of Nietzschean Ressentiment This model facilitates a comprehensive understanding of revisionist motivation from the violence of ISIS to the oppositionism of Putin s Russia The aim is to illustrate how a lack of violence can belie vengeful impulses and a silent rage and how acts of violence regardless of brutality are often framed as a type of justice and moral imperative in the mind of the aggressor This book raises serious questions and concerns about legitimacy and order in global affairs and offers a firm theoretical basis for the exploration of present day conflicts

Adenauer's Foreign Office Thomas Maulucci, 2012-11-15 The creation of the Foreign Office under Adenauer tells us much about the possibilities and limits of professional diplomacy in the mid twentieth century It also demonstrates three themes central to the early history of the Federal Republic the integration of the new state into the international community the cooptation of German elites and traditions by the new political system and the creation of government in a state under foreign occupation In this important study Thomas Maulucci argues that despite an improvised start and a considerable continuity of practice and personnel with pre 1945 Germany the changed international and domestic situation proved decisive in creating a ministry that could help to implement new directions in German foreign policy In addition Maulucci explores the interactions between international political and social history contributing to a literature that bridges the gap between the pre and post World War Two eras that characterized previous writing on German history Based on extensive research in German American British and French archives Adenauer's Foreign Office is the only English language book of its kind The troubling question of personnel continuity in the German diplomatic service is of considerable importance today especially because of the Foreign Office's previous attempts to portray its past in the best possible light Of interest to scholars and students of German history and politics as well as non specialists this book provides new insights into post war diplomacy the sociology of German elites and the problems involved in creating a new government after losing a major war

The History of U.S. Information Control in Post-War Germany Erwin Warkentin, 2016-09-23. In May of 1945 the American army along with those of its Allies occupied the cities and towns of Hitler's Third Reich. While most American soldiers wondered how Germany's citizens were going to feed and shelter themselves, this volume introduces the reader to another group of men who were concerned about a different form of starvation. The men of what was to become the Information Control Division (ICD) in the American Zone were preparing an antidote to 12 years of National Socialist propaganda which was to be a steady diet of carefully selected bits of information that were calculated to change the way the German people understood the world. It was designed to transform the Germans into staunch defenders of democracy. In addition to providing the first historical overview of the activities of the ICD and the methods they employed, the book offers a unique perspective on how the US occupation utilised psychologists, psychiatrists, anthropologists, sociologists and other academics to vet potential candidates for media licenses in Germany. The narrative takes the reader through the various steps of the process of becoming a literary publisher, newspaperman, magazine editor, radio programmer and filmmakers and reveals how the American Military Government in Germany used the establishment of new media empires to attempt the mass re-education of an entire nation.
