Boucher, Charles-Philippe David, Karine Prémont, 2020-11-12 Since the advent of the contemporary US national security apparatus in 1947 entrepreneurial public officials have tried to reorient the course of the nation's foreign policy Acting inside the National Security Council system some principals and high ranking officials have worked tirelessly to generate policy change and innovation on the issues they care about These entrepreneurs attempt to set the foreign policy agenda frame policy problems and solutions and orient the decision making process to convince the president and other decision makers to choose the course they advocate In National Security Entrepreneurs and the Making of American Foreign Policy Vincent Boucher Charles Philippe David and Karine Prémont develop a new concept to study entrepreneurial behaviour among foreign policy advisers and offer the first comprehensive framework of analysis to answer this crucial question why do some entrepreneurs succeed in guaranteeing the adoption of novel policies while others fail They explore case studies of attempts to reorient US foreign policy waged by National Security Council entrepreneurs examining the key factors enabling success and the main forces preventing the adoption of a preferred option the entrepreneur s profile presidential leadership major players involved in the policy formulation and decision making processes the national political context and the presence or absence of significant opportunities By carefully analyzing significant diplomatic and military decisions of the Johnson Nixon Reagan and Clinton administrations and offering a preliminary account of contemporary national security entrepreneurship under presidents George W Bush Barack Obama and Donald Trump this book makes the case for an agent based explanation of foreign policy change and continuity The Mood/Interest Theory of American Foreign Policy Jack E. Holmes,2014-07-15 In 1952 Frank L Klingberg s article on introvert and extrovert American foreign policy moods projected an American turn toward introversion in the late 1960s After this came to pass Jack Holmes began to develop a theory of how these moods might work in a more specific sense His mood interest theory points to a basic conflict between politico military interests and the foreign policy moods of the American electorate Holmes presents a pioneering account of the over whelming impact of public moods on foreign policy Policy making structures executive legislative relations presidential personality pragmatism moralism elitism conservatism international economics and humanitarianism are related to the mood interest pattern Major points are illustrated with examples from 1776 to the present Holmes s analysis indicates that American moods are continuing unabated according to past patterns so that American foreign policy may undergo some surprising changes in the next decade One of the author s hopes is that emphasis on the importance of national moods will help avoid future extremes This book is bold in its assertions and points to major problems in the analysis of American foreign policy Whether or not the reader agrees with the entire analysis he or she will be challenged to think about American foreign policy in new and perhaps revealing ways National Security and Foreign Policy Priorities in the Fiscal Year 2015 International Affairs Budget United States.
