The Anvil Of Civilization:

The Anvil of Civilisation Leonard Cottrell, 1958      The Anvil of Civilisation Leonard Cottrell, 1960      Anvil of Civilization Leonard Cottrell, 1969-05-01      The Anvil of Civilization Leonard Cottrell, 1962      The Anvil of Civilization. (Ninth Printing.). Leonard Cottrell, 1966      The Anvil of Civilisation Leonard Cottrell, 1960      The Anvil of Civilization Leonard Cottrell, 1958      The Word and the Sword Leonard Dudley, 1991

Dudley attempts to impose a pattern on the entire history of human civilization. He shows how the major transformations in the character of social life have been determined by eight significant innovations: four new ways of dealing with information (writing, printing, mass media, and integrated circuits) and four new ways of organizing the applications of violence (metal weapons, artillery, steam transport, and heavy cavalry). Military and informational technologies are so crucial because they are instrumental in holding states together while innovation in itself tends to produce new economies of scale.

The Island Civilizations of Polynesia Robert Carl Suggs, 1960. Where did the Polynesians come from? Why did they leave their original homeland? How did they find their way across the open sea to unknown lands? Did they ever set foot on South American soil? These are just some of the questions anthropologist Robert C. Suggs deals with in this challenging culture history of the Polynesians whose accomplishments in the field of navigation rank with the greatest maritime achievements in human history.

The Story of Ancient Irish Civilization Patrick Weston Joyce, 1907      Nature's Unruly Mob Paul Gilk, 2009-06-03. Growing up in the mostly wooded rural countryside of northern Wisconsin in the decades immediately after the Second World War meant immersion in cultural transformation. An economy of subsistence and self-provisioning was rapidly becoming industrialized and commercial. The culture of the local and small scale was being overpowered by the metropolitan and large scale. This experience provided the practical groundedness for exploring the decline and even the demise of small scale farming not just in northern Wisconsin but as an example and illustration of how industrialization and globalization undermine local rural culture everywhere. Linked with an ecological critique that asserts the unsustainability of globalized industrialism, the exploration into the meaning of rural culture took on larger significance especially when seen in relation to the collapse of all prior civilizations. In addition, the investigation into the origins of civilization revealed the predatory relationship civilization developed in regard to agriculture and rural life. The rampant globalization of civilization results in the destitution and impoverishment of agrarian culture. The question then becomes whether civilization has finally achieved the technical mastery by which to protect and extend itself permanently or whether its complexity only assures a more catastrophic collapse or whether civilization may learn to be flexible enough to merge with an essentially noncivilized folk culture to create a new cultural sensibility that enhances the best of both worlds. This is the question the entire world is now facing. Weapons of mass destruction, climate change, and peak oil all combine the force of a resolution to this dilemma.
