The Archaeology Of Tribal Societies Imp Archaeological Series:

The Archaeology of Tribal Societies William A. Parkinson, 2002-03-01 Anthropological archaeologists have long attempted to develop models that will let them better understand the evolution of human social organization In our search to understand how chiefdoms and states evolve and how those societies differ from egalitarian bands we have neglected to develop models that will aid the understanding of the wide range of variability that exists between them This volume attempts to fill this gap by exploring social organization in tribal or autonomous village societies from several different ethnographic ethnohistoric and archaeological contexts from the Pre Pottery Neolithic Period in the Near East to the contemporary Jivaro of Amazonia

Written in Stone P. Nick Kardulias, Richard W. Yerkes, 2003-01-01 Written in Stone The Multiple Dimensions of Lithic Analysis demonstrates the vitality of contemporary lithics analysis by examining material from a variety of geographical locations This edited collection is primarily concerned with the link between craft production and social complexity the nature of trade and the delineation of settlement patterns and manipulation of landscape While deconstructing the present to reconstruct the past each chapter incorporates a technological dimension shaped by the type of analysis utilized Methods include microwear analysis which adds significant understanding of stone tool function to the identification of obsidian sources which illustrates the potential of lithic provenance studies for reconstructing trade This book verifies and expands on the notion that lithics play an integral role in our understanding of past societies at all levels of complexity from Paleolithic hunter gatherers to archaic states
