Faiz S. Abdullah

Introduction

As an area of study at the undergraduate level, ‘speech communication’ deals with aspects of communication theory as well as the practice of speaking in social contexts with special reference to ESL (English as a Second Language). The former may be an ‘area’ or even ‘type’ of communication (including intrapersonal, interpersonal, small group, institutional, public, mass, and intercultural communication). The latter precept covers the context-specific form of one or more of the general purposes of communication i.e. to discover, to relate,
