Harmony and Dissent R. Bruce Elder, 2010-04-22 R Bruce Elder argues that the authors of many of the manifestoes that announced in such lively ways the appearance of yet another artistic movement shared a common aspiration they proposed to reformulate the visual literary and performing arts so that they might take on attributes of the cinema The cinema Elder argues became in the early decades of the twentieth century a pivotal artistic force around which a remarkable variety and number of aesthetic forms took shape To demonstrate this Elder begins with a wide ranging discussion that opens up some broad topics concerning modernity s cognitive and perceptual regime with a view to establishing that a crisis within that regime engendered some peculiar and highly questionable epistemological beliefs and enthusiasms Through this discussion Elder advances the startling claim that a crisis of cognition precipitated by modernity engendered by way of response a peculiar sort of pneumatic spiritual epistemology Elder then shows that early ideas of the cinema were strongly influenced by this pneumatic epistemology and uses this conception of the cinema to explain its pivotal role in shaping two key moments in early twentieth century art the quest to bring forth a pure objectless non representational art and Russian Suprematism Constructivism and Productivism

Collective Reflexology Jaan Valsiner, Vladimir Mikhailovitch Bekhterev was a pioneering Russian neurologist psychiatrist and psychologist A highly esteemed rival of Ivan Pavlov his achievements in the areas of personality clinical psychology and political and social psychology were recognized and acclaimed throughout the world. Publication of the complete text of Collective Reflexology brings to the English speaking world this brilliant scientist's final theoretical statements on how reflexological principles which he had been developing over a quarter century can be extended far beyond analysis of the individual personality. Bekhterev's work grows out of his interest in group psychology and suggestion. This concept of the reflex is much broader than Pavlov's. It is applicable to every variety of life. Bekhterev compared his own analyses to those of other European thinkers such as Comte, LeBon and Sorokin. Such analyses strained against the official Marxist-Leninist doctrines of the era. Bekhterev died in 1927, allegedly of poisoning by Stalin's henchman. As with many scientists during the Soviet era, his legacy was suppressed. In the normal course of events, his name would have been as well known as that of Freud, Pavlov or more lately, B.F. Skinner. This first publication of Bekhterev's great work in English fills a void in the fields of psychology, sociology and the history of science.

V.M. Bekhterev was director of the Military Medical Academy in St. Petersburg and founded there its Psychoneurological Institute. Among his many books are Suggestion: Its Role in Social Life (available from Transaction) and The Subject Matter and Goals of Social Psychology. Lloyd H. Strickland is professor of psychology at Carleton University. He is the author of numerous journal articles and editor of Directions in Soviet Social Psychology and Soviet and Western Perspectives in Social Psychology.

Bekhterev (1857-1927) is a formidable figure and his work continues to deserve careful study. Canadian Psychology Suggestion and Its Role in Social Life. V. M. Bekhterev, 2017. Vladimir Mikhailovitch Bekhterev was a pioneering Russian neurologist, psychiatrist and psychologist. A highly esteemed rival of Ivan Pavlov, his achievements in the areas of personality, clinical psychology and political and social psychology were recognized and acclaimed throughout the world. However, when his version of reflexological doctrine ran afoul of official Soviet ideology in the 1920s, his work was banned and his influence suppressed through the dispersal of his many colleagues and disciples. Bekhterev himself died in 1927 under mysterious circumstances. This translation of Suggestion and Its Role in Social Life is a significant instance of intellectual and cultural restoration. It marks a starting point of Bekhterev's lifelong endeavor to relate his clinical observations and philosophy of science to problems of the social world. Bekhterev's investigation reviews and explains the many conflicting positions in the social and scientific thought concerning the nature and power of suggestion. He takes pains to differentiate the process from persuasion and hypnosis and discusses suggestion and autosuggestion in the waking state, examining their effectiveness on feeling, thought and behavior. He then discusses the destructive consequences of the process: violent crime, suicide, witchcraft and devil possession, hysteria in a wide variety of contexts important in the Russia, Europe and North America of the period. Bekhterev presents a structural model of the mind including both conscious and unconscious realms and the phenomena of suggestion without awareness. In doing so, he anticipated much present-day work on preconscious influence. Suggestion and Its Role in Social Life is a landmark study in collective psychological research that may lead to revisions in histories of social psychology. It will be read by psychologists.

Contagionism and Contagious Diseases Thomas Rütten,Martina King,2013-11-27 The idea of contagious transmission either by material particles or by infectious ideas has played a powerful role in the development of the Western World since antiquity Yet it acquired quite a precise signature during the process of scientific and cultural differentiation in the 19th and early 20th centuries This volume explores the significance and cultural functions of contagionism in this period from notions of infectious homosexuality and the concept of social contagion to the political implications of bacteriological fieldwork The history of the concept microbe in aesthetic modernism is adressed as well as bacteriological metaphors in American literary historiography Within this broad framework contagionism as a literary narrative is approached in more focussed contributions from its emotional impact in literary modernism to the idea of physical or psychic contagion in authors such as H G Wells Kurt Lasswitz Gustav Meyrinck Ernst Weiss Thomas Mann and Max Frisch This twofold approach of general topics and individual literary case studies produces a deeper understanding of the symbolic implications of contagionism marking the boundaries between sick and healthy familiar and alien morally pure and impure

Cultural Studies Review Chris Healy and Stephen Muecke (eds),2008 The October 2008 Cultural Studies Review is a special issue focusing on cultures of panic particularly recent examples of moral panic arising from issues of race gender and sexuality The diverse essays deal with men of Middle Eastern appearance the trial of Private Kovko the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina the use of Ritalin concerns around children and sexuality in Australia and arts funding in the United States during the culture wars The moral panic has centrally to do with the behaviour of crowds particularly the virtual crowds created by the mass media It s a mechanism of expulsion and thus at the same time of group solidarity It s also a particularly powerful genre of the tabloid media in its identification and shaming of deviant social groups it rigidly defines and reinforces moral norms and is complicit with political strategies of consolidation and othering which create and depend on a sense of horror at refugees who wilfully throw their children overboard or push in to the front of the queue at paedophiles grooming children over the internet at drug crazed criminals and bingeing teenagers The challenge is to move beyond the realisation that moral panics are not rationally constructed to an analysis of the passional bases of the social order and to an understanding of how our politics might deal with this without itself falling into the contagion of panic The diverse collection of essays gathered together in this edition takes up that challenge

Early Media Effects Theory & the Suggestion Doctrine: Selected Readings, 1895-1935 Patrick Parsons, 2024-12-22 While much has been written on the history of media effects research in the United States a casual review of the literature could reasonably lead one to believe that little if any such work was conducted until the 1940s The anthology consisting of over 30 public domain works originally publishing from the late 19th century to the mid 1930s demonstrates the rich and varied study of media effects before mid century much of it centered on the concept of suggestion What media scholars know today as persuasion social psychologists of the early 1900s would have understood as the process of suggestion The works collected in Early Media Effects Theory the Suggestion Doctrine include the original statements on the subject from many of the leading social theorists of the age among them figures such as Gabriel Tarde and Gustave Le Bon in France and James Baldwin Edward Ross and Floyd Allport in the United States
