The Goddess and the Sun in Indian Myth Raj Balkaran,2020-04-07

In analyzing the parallels between myths glorifying the Indian Great Goddess Durg and those glorifying the Sun S rya found in the M rka eya Pur a this book argues for an ideological ecosystem at work in the M rka eya Pur a privileging worldly values of which Indian kings the Goddess Dev the Sun S rya Manu and M rka eya himself are paragons This book features a salient discovery in Sanskrit narrative text just as the M rka eya Pur a houses the Dev M h tmya glorifying the supremacy of the Indian Great Goddess Durg it also houses a S rya M h tmya glorifying the supremacy of the Sun S rya in much the same manner This book argues that these m h tmyas were meaningfully and purposefully positioned in the M rka eya Pur a while previous scholarship has considered this haphazard interpolation for sectarian aims The book demonstrates that deliberate compositional strategies make up the Saura kta symbiosis found in these mirrored m h tmyas Moreover the author explores what he calls the dharmic double helix of Brahmanism most explicitly articulated by the structural opposition between prav tti worldly and niv tti other worldly dharmas As the first narrative study of the S rya M h tmya along with the first study of the M rka eya Pur a or any Pur a as a narrative whole this book will be of interest to academics in the field of Religion Hindu Studies South Asian Studies Goddess Studies Narrative Theory and Comparative Mythology

Steps to Water Morna Livingston,2002-04 From the fifth to the nineteenth centuries the people of western India built stone cisterns to collect the water of the monsoon rains and keep it accessible for the remaining dry months of the year These magnificent structures known as stepwells or stepped ponds are much more than utilitarian reservoirs Their lattice like walls carved columns decorated towers and intricate sculpture make them exceptional architecture while their very presence tells much about the region s ecology and history For these past 500 years stepwells

The Queen's Stepwell at Patan K. Mankodi,1991 Illustrations 75 colour and 136 b w figures and 26 plans Description In the arid region of Gujarat and Rajasthan with scarce rain a highly original architectural form developed that of the stepwell that is a well with a long flight of steps leading down to the water s edge The steps did not remain as a mere adjunct to the well but increased in complexity Structural necessity to hold back the loose earth coupled with the builder s Jove of the ornate transformed the flight of steps into an elaborate stairway with many pillared pavilions demarcating the stages and with many storeys on successive pavilions The Ranki Vav or the Queen s Stepwell at Patan the old capital of Gujarat was built by Udayamati in memory of her husband late in the eleventh century The monument was planned on an ambitious scale over two hundred feet in length with a draw well nearly one hundred feet deep and was furnished with no fewer than eight hundred sculptures The present work is concerned with the architecture statuary style and chronology of the Queen s Stepwell The method of construction is also considered to enable the reader to understand better this unique architectural form Twenty six large drawings specially commissioned and 211 colour and black and white photographs illustrate the book
