The Linguistic Structure of Modern English Laurel J. Brinton, Donna Brinton, 2010. This text is for advanced undergraduate and graduate students interested in contemporary English, especially those whose primary area of interest is English as a second language, primary or secondary school education, English stylistics, theoretical and applied linguistics, or speech pathology. The emphasis is on empirical facts of English rather than any particular theory of linguistics; the text does not assume any background in language or linguistics. In this newly revised edition, numerous example sentences are taken from the Corpus of Contemporary American English. A full glossary of key terms, an additional chapter on pedagogy, and new sections on cognitive semantics and politeness have been added. Other changes include completely updated print references, web links to sites of special interest and relevance, and a revised reader-friendly layout. A companion website that includes a complete workbook with self-testing exercises and a comprehensive list of web links accompanies the book. The website can be found at the following address: <http://dx.doi.org/10.1075/z156.workbook>. Students completing the text and workbook will acquire a knowledge of the sound system of contemporary English, an understanding of the formation of English words, a comprehension of the structure of both simple and complex sentences in English, a recognition of complexities in the expression of meaning, an understanding of the context and function of use upon the structure of the language, and an appreciation of the importance of linguistic knowledge to the teaching of English to first and second language learners

Laurel J Brinton is Professor of English Language at the University of British Columbia Donna M Brinton is Senior Lecturer in TESOL at the University of Southern California's Rossier School of Education The Linguistic Structure of Modern English is a revised edition of The Structure of Modern English by Laurel J Brinton 2000 Sentence Patterns in English and Hebrew Ron Kuzar, 2012-10-30 Sentence Patterns in English and Hebrew offers an innovative perspective on sentential syntax in which sentence patterns are introduced as constructions within the general framework of Construction Grammar Drawing on naturally occurring data collected from the Internet the study challenges the prevailing view of predication as the sole mechanism of sentence formation and introduces the idea of patterning as a complementary sometimes even alternative mechanism Major sentence patterns of English and Hebrew are systematically presented targeting both their form and their function A contrastive analysis of the sentence patterns in these two languages results in postulating a typological group in which cognitive motivations are shown to account for both similarities and differences within the typology Sentence Patterns in English and Hebrew will appeal to scholars of constructional approaches cognitive linguistics typology syntax as well as anyone interested in English and Hebrew
