

hard-hitting little note about a delivery. The format of note is full block and the sentences business-like and courteous. In discussing official record on the next page, the authors build into their track of presentation a memorandum that won a young man promotion in the advertising department of his firm. The warning about antique phrasing is especially good. Three young ladies write in the old manse style a letter requesting accommodations at a vacation resort. Is it management's fault that these shapely misses are lodged among the elderly?

Every teacher of business communication ought to browse through this book as an example of craftsmanship. It deserves wide adoption for the classes it is designed to serve. If I were Harcourt, Brace, & World, I would promote it also among training officers and even as a trade book.

Taking Command: The Art and Science of Military Leadership, Colonel Samuel H. Hays and Lieutenant Colonel William N. Thomas (Editors) with text contributed by Colonels Hays and Thomas and the Military Psychology and Leadership Staff at the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York; Stackpole Books, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, 1967, 317 pages.

Readings in Leadership, A Cadet Reference to Supplement Taking Command, Office of Military Psychology and Leadership, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York, 1968, 331 pages.

Although these two texts were designed primarily for the training of military leaders, they provide an excellent approach to leadership through communication in any type of organization. The management communication specialist will be pleased to note the sophistication and excellence of the West Point communication program implied in the preparation of these two texts.

Taking Command deserves wide study among management communication specialists for one important reason: it blends twenty years' research on leadership, the thinking of fifteen authorities on military leadership, and a synthesis of the best behavioral scholarship, all in a single crucible of text. The point
