

An illustration of a warehouse interior. In the foreground, a man with glasses, wearing a green jacket over a white shirt and blue trousers, stands between two tall metal shelving units. He is holding a black clipboard and looking at it. The shelves are filled with various items: orange cardboard boxes, brown cardboard boxes, and wooden crates. Some boxes are stacked on wooden pallets. In the background, another person is visible walking away. The overall scene depicts a physical inventory count.

Stock-taking is when companies count the number of goods they have by hand to see if their inventory records are accurate.

Example

Inventory Record = 500 units
Physical Stock Count = 500 units

Taking Stock Francis T. Cullen, 2017-07-05 Criminology is in a period of much theoretical ferment Older theories have been revitalized and newer theories have been set forth The very richness of our thinking about crime however leads to questions about the relative merits of these competing paradigms Accordingly in this volume advocates of prominent theories are asked to take stock of their perspectives Their challenge is to assess the empirical status of their theory and to map out future directions for theoretical development

Taking Stock of Industrial Ecology Roland Clift, Angela Druckman, 2015-12-11 How can we design more sustainable industrial and urban systems that reduce environmental impacts while supporting a high quality of life for everyone What progress has been made towards reducing resource use and waste and what are the prospects for more resilient material efficient economies What are the environmental and social impacts of global supply chains and how can they be measured and improved Such questions are at the heart of the emerging discipline of industrial ecology covered in Taking Stock of Industrial Ecology Leading authors researchers and practitioners review how far industrial ecology has developed and current issues and concerns with illustrations of what the industrial ecology paradigm has achieved in public policy corporate strategy and industrial practice It provides an introduction for students coming to industrial ecology and for professionals who wish to understand what industrial ecology can offer a reference for researchers and practitioners and a source of case studies for teachers

Take Stock Ellis Traub, 2000-10-25 Most people would like to find a way to double their money every five years without risky investments endless research stock trading and taxes on the trades Ellis Traub will show you how Making investing fun and simple he shows investors a proven system for acquiring wealth through the process of investing in companies True investors view stocks as they were intended as part ownership of the companies Over the long term they expect their stock to grow in value year after year as their companies increase their earnings Beginning investors can invest in individual companies profitably and wisely using the interactive step by step process outlined in Take Stock A Roadmap to Profiting from Your First Walk Down Wall Street Taking stock of IFPRI's experience with country programs Hazell, Peter B.R.,Place, Frank M.,Tollens, Eric,2019-01-16 IFPRI commissioned this study to assess how the country programs CPs are performing which approaches and methods are producing the best outcomes across countries and over time to identify factors that promote or impede their progress and lessons for making them more impactful in the future The study has two major components The first is a survey and analysis of the factors that CP leaders perceived to have most helped them influence host country policies We interviewed all current and most past CP leaders which enabled us to compile evidence from recent CP experiences as well as from the 1980s and 1990s We focused on the lessons they drew from their past successes that shed light on how to make their other activities successful We did not undertake similar interviews on failed efforts because it is much harder to elicit such information from CP leaders Additional insights about unsuccessful activities are however captured in the second component of the study a commissioned external evaluation of the performance of a sample of ongoing country programs Ideally the external evaluation would have included CPs in both Africa and Asia but this was not possible with the available budget We therefore settled for an evaluation of CPs in Africa south of the Sahara Doing so had two advantages 1 the African CPs are more homogenous in terms of their objectives structure and internal IFPRI management making comparisons among them more insightful and 2 the budget was sufficient to both include all the African CPs in some of the analyses and allow the external evaluator to visit three of them
