Taking Care Neil D. Weinstein, 1987-08-13 The reasons why people take precautions and why they don't are examined by experts from a wide range of fields who explore the theoretical and practical issues involved in understanding self protective behavior The Phoenix of Natural Disasters Kathryn Gow, Douglas Paton, 2008 This book encompasses discussions between Kathryn Gow and Douglas Paton both psychologists who have researched stress burnout trauma and recovery in natural disasters They suggest that few books have been written for health professionals and persons directly involved with leading and managing emergency teams on what constitutes resilience in individuals and groups in communities and how they differ in response and recovery The outcome is a three part book with contributors from the field research institutions emergency service sectors support agencies and the media Its main purpose is to focus on the resilience of people and communities following NDs and to educate the sectors already involved in natural disasters Impersonal

Influence Diana C. Mutz, 1998-11-28 People's perceptions of the attitudes and experiences of mass collectives are an increasingly important force in contemporary political life In Impersonal Influence Mutz goes beyond simply providing examples of how impersonal influence matters in the political process to provide a micro level understanding of why information about distant and impersonal others often influence people's political attitudes and behaviors Impersonal Influence is worthy of attention both from the standpoint of its impact on contemporary politics and because of its potential to expand the boundaries of our understanding of social influence processes and media's relation to them The book's conclusions do not exonerate media from the effects of inaccurate portrayals of collective experience or opinion but they suggest that the ways in which people are influenced by these perceptions are in themselves not so much deleterious to democracy as absolutely necessary to promoting accountability in a large scale society Health Care in America John C.
