Communication Barbara Bennett Shadden, Mary Ann Toner, 1997 Nineteen contributions provide a resource for professionals who seek to improve the appropriateness quality and breadth of interventions with communicatively impaired older adults Arrangement is in two sections The first covers various aspects of aging and includes focus on the social physical and mental problems of aging and the second establishes care setting and service delivery models for intervention approaches Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Working with Deaf People Anna Middleton, 2010 Long gone are the days when a deaf person is expected to struggle through a healthcare consultation with a health professional who has inadequate deaf awareness Legislation now dictates that the onus is on the health professional to utilise the right communication skills Deafness is very common meaning that health professionals whatever their specialist area can expect to encounter a client with deafness or hearing loss on a daily basis Working with Deaf People is intended for use as a general reference manual offering practical advice on how to prepare for the consultation with clients who are deaf or deafblind Information is offered about language communication and culture case studies demonstrate how the messages can be applied in practice Every health professional medical and nursing student whatever their discipline and whatever country they work in should have a copy of this book P - S.,2002 The Effects of Genetic Hearing Impairment in the Family Dafydd Stephens,Lesley Jones,2006-10-02 There has been an explosion of studies in the field of genetic hearing impairment in the past decade associated with major advances in our understanding of the mechanisms and conditions involved However a recent review has highlighted the very limited number of studies on the effects of such hearing impairment on the individuals and families of those concerned In The Effects of Genetic Hearing Impairment in the Family under the aegis of the European Union GENDEAF programme the editors have taken the first steps to address this deficit in our knowledge and understanding of this topic The book addresses the problem by secondary analyses of existing large scale population studies by prospective investigation of individuals with a family history of hearing impairment and by specific studies on patients with otosclerosis and neurofibromatosis 2 and their families In addition several chapters look at the specific impact of deaf culture ethnicity and religion on reactions to deafness and the specific needs in genetic counselling This book represents an important first step in this field and should be an invaluable resource for all professionals involved with people with hearing impairments Writing, Enslavement, and Power in the Roman Mediterranean, 100 BCE-300 CE Assistant Professor of New Testament Jesuit School of Theology Jeremiah Coogan,Jeremiah Coogan,Candida R. Moss,Edward Cadbury Professor of Theology Candida R Moss,Joseph A. Howley,2025-10 This volume assembles twenty two scholars from the fields of classics and early Christian studies to interrogate the intersections between writing and enslavement around the Roman Mediterranean Drawing upon methods developed in scholarship on book history and Atlantic slavery the authors demonstrate the myriad ways in which the material and intellectual contributions of enslaved literary workers were vital to the composition editing copying circulation reading and preservation of Roman texts This thematically organized volume exposes the ways that power dynamics denigrate and erase enslaved contributors as well as how language barriers gender difference and disability created dependence on enslaved workers The central role of enslaved workers in practical work like bookkeeping education and divination is explored in addition to the unseen labor of enslaved collators note keepers editors and curators Enslaved workers were a constitutive part of the Roman knowledge economy their roles in allowing others to read and write in producing ancient literature and in staffing the bureaucratic structures of the Roman empire were profound Roman literature technology and knowledge depended on the labor and expertise of enslaved literate workers and these chapters argue that they influenced just about every aspect of Roman life Meeting the Needs of People with Disabilities Ruth A. Velleman,1990 A recommended resource not only for relatively inexperienced librarians educators and social service personnel but for seasoned professionals as well Library Journal Hearing and Aging Raymond H.
