Suicide Risk Assessment And Response Guidelines:

Suicide Risk William J. Fremouw, Maria De Perczel, Thomas E. Ellis, 1990 Suicide Risk Assessment and Prevention Maurizio Pompili, 2022-12-19 This book explores suicide prevention perspectives from around the world considering both professionals points of view as well as first person accounts from suicidal individuals Scholars around the globe have puzzled over what makes a person suicidal and what is in the minds of those individuals who die by suicide Most often the focus is not on the motives for suicide nor on the phenomenology of this act but on what is found from small cohorts of suicidal individuals This book offers a tentative synthesis of a complex phenomenon and sheds some light on models of suicide that are less frequently encountered in the literature Written by international experts it makes a valuable contribution to the field of suicidology that appeals to a wide readership from mental health professionals to researchers in suicidology and students

The Oxford Handbook of Behavioral Emergencies and Crises Phillip M. Kleespies, 2016-09-19 The Oxford Handbook of Behavioral Emergencies and Crises includes the most up to date and valuable research on the evaluation and management of the most challenging patients or clients faced by mental health providers individuals who are at high risk of suicide of other directed violence or of becoming the victims of interpersonal violence These are cases in which the outcome can be serious injury or death and there can be negative consequences not only for the patient but also for the patient s family and friends for the assessing or treating clinician and for the patient s clinic or medical center Virtually all mental health clinicians with an active caseload will see individuals with such issues This Handbook is comprised of chapters by leading clinicians researchers and scholars in this area of practice It presents a framework for learning the skills needed for assessing and working competently with such high risk individuals Chapters draw a distinction between behavioral emergencies and crises and between emergency intervention and crisis intervention The book examines the inter related aspects of the major behavioral emergencies that is for example the degree to which interpersonal victimization may lead an individual on a pathway to later suicidal or violent behavior or the degree to which suicidal individuals and violent individuals may share certain cognitive characteristics This resource is not simply a knowledge base for behavioral emergencies it also presents a method for reducing stress and acquiring skills in working with high risk people

Risk Management with Suicidal Patients Bruce Bongar, Alan L. Berman, Ronald W. Maris, Morton M. Silverman, Wendy Packman, Eric A. Harris, 1999-07-16 How does the law define reasonable care in the treatment of suicidal patients What are the most clinically and legally appropriate procedures for evaluating and managing suicide risks And what forms of precautionary planning and documentation are recommended for minimizing the likelihood of malpractice actions Drawing upon years of clinical experience as well as extensive malpractice claims data and relevant case law this book outlines effective assessment management and treatment procedures that balance the need for high quality care with the requirements of court determined and statutory standards Three widely cited papers on standards of care are accompanied by four new chapters on clinical and legal risk management and issues surrounding pharmacotherapy Offering frank balanced coverage of an extremely challenging clinical situation Risk Management with Suicidal Patients helps psychologists psychiatrists and other practitioners develop their own clinically and legally informed strategies for providing the best possible care It is also an invaluable resource for legal professionals and may serve as a text in psychology and psychiatry ethics courses and courses on mental health law

Guidelines for the Systematic Treatment of the Depressed Patient Larry E. Beutler, John Clarkin, Bruce Bongar, 2000-02-03 From initial consultation to termination of treatment psychologists and other mental health practitioners make a series of crucial decisions to determine the progress and therapy of the patient These decisions have varied implications such as the clinical course of the patient the efficacy and efficiency of the treatment and the cost of the sessions Thus the decisions made by mental health professionals need to be accurate and consistent respecting a series of guidelines that will ultimately benefit the patient This is the first in a series of guidebooks that is designed to do just that by providing practitioners with some structure in the development of treatment programs Previous guidelines have been based on consensus panels of experts or on the opinions of membership groups causing guidelines to be very far off from the findings of empirical research Here guidelines are presented in terms of treatment principles rather than in terms of specific treatment models or theories and they do not favor one theory of psychotherapy over another Instead they define strategies and considerations that can be woven into comprehensive treatment programs The entire series of guidebooks will cover numerous topics including anxiety disorders drug abuse alcohol abuse and treatment of serious mental disorders This volume will cover in detail the nature of depression issues in treatment research contemporary treatments and implications for education and training It is ideal for postgraduates and professionals in the mental health field and is intended to provide important background on treatment of non bipolar depressive disorders
