Kiowa Belief and Ritual Benjamin R. Kracht, 2017-07 Directed by anthropologist Alexander Lesser in 1935 the Santa Fe Laboratory of Anthropology sponsored a field school in southwestern Oklahoma that focused on the neighboring Kiowas During two months graduate students compiled more than 1 300 pages of single spaced field notes derived from cross interviewing thirty five Kiowas These eyewitness and first generation reflections on the horse and buffalo days are undoubtedly the best materials available for reconstructing pre reservation Kiowa beliefs and rituals The field school compiled massive data resulting in a number of publications on this formerly nomadic Plains tribe though the planned collaborative ethnographies never materialized The extensive Kiowa field notes which contain invaluable information remained largely unpublished until now In Kiowa Belief and Ritual Benjamin R Kracht reconstructs Kiowa cosmology during the height of the horse and buffalo culture from field notes pertaining to cosmology visions shamans sorcery dream shields tribal bundles and the now extinct Sun Dance ceremony These topics are interpreted through the Kiowa concept of a power force permeating the universe Additional data gleaned from the field notes of James Mooney and Alice Marriott enrich the narrative Drawing on more than thirty years of field experiences Kracht's discussion of how Indigenous notions of power are manifested today significantly enhances the existing literature concerning Plains religions

Morgan provided Edward Curtis with 75 000 to produce a series on Native Americans and he recorded tribal lore and history and he described traditional foods housing garments recreation ceremonies and funeral customs Curtis's goal was to photograph and to document as much of Native American traditional life as possible before that way of life disappears

The Calendar History of Kiowa Indians (Illustrated Edition) James Mooney, 2018-11-02 This eBook has been formatted to the highest digital standards and adjusted for readability on all devices The desire to preserve to future ages the memory of past achievements is a universal human instinct as witness the clay tablets of old Chaldea the hieroglyphs of the obelisks our countless thousands of manuscripts and printed volumes and the gossiping old story teller of the village or the backwoods cabin The reliability of the record depends chiefly on the truthfulness of the recorder and the adequacy of the method employed In Asia the cradle of civilization authentic history goes back thousands of years in Europe the record begins much later while in America the aboriginal narrative which may be considered as fairly authentic is all comprised within a thousand years The peculiar and elaborate systems by means of which the more cultivated ancient nations of the south recorded their histories are too well known to students to need more than a passing notice here It was known that our own tribes had various ways of depicting their mythology their totems or isolated facts in the life of the individual or nation but it is only within a few years that it was even suspected that they could have anything like continuous historical records even in embryo The fact is now established however that pictographic records covering periods of from sixty to perhaps two hundred years or more do or did exist among several tribes and it is entirely probable that every leading mother tribe had such a record of its origin and wanderings the pictured narrative being compiled by the priests and preserved with sacred care through all the shifting vicissitudes of savage life until lost or destroyed in the ruin that overwhelmed the native governments at the coming of the white man Several such histories are now known and as the aboriginal field is still but partially explored others may yet come to light
