Sweet Track To Glastonbury:

Sweet Track to Glastonbury Bryony Coles, John M. Coles, 1986 Sweet Track to Glastonbury, by Bryony and John Coles (pbk). Bryony Coles, John Coles, 1988 Southern England R. A. Otter, 1994 This guide covers from Cornwall to Kent including Somerset and parts of Wiltshire and Surrey It provides an informative look at some of the internationally renowned examples of historic development and engineering skills throughout southern England including such examples as Smeaton's Eddystone Lighthouse Wet Site Archaeology Barbara A. Purdy, 2018-01-10 This volume the result of an International Conference on Wet Site Archaeology funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities explores the rewards and responsibilities of recovering unique assemblages from water saturated deposits Characteristics common to all archaeological wet sites are identified from Newfoundland to Chile Polynesia to Florida and from the Late Pleistocene to the Twentieth Century Topics include innovative excavation and preservation methods the need for adequate funding to preserve and analyze the abundant biological and cultural remains recovered only at archaeological wet sites expanded knowledge of past environments subsistence technologies artistic expressions skeletal structure and pathologies the urgency to inform developers and governmental bodies about the invisible heritage entombed in wetlands that is often destroyed before it can be investigated a formula for establishing priorities for excavating wet sites and how to determine when enough of a wet site has been sampled Many famous sites and discoveries are described in this volume including Herculaneum Hoko River Hontoon Island Key Marco Monte Verde Ozette Somerset Levels Windover bog bodies of Northern Europe and lake dwellers of Switzerland Professional and amateur archaeologists as well as anyone interested in archaeology or the significance of wet site archaeology will find this book fascinating Preserving Archaeological Remains in Situ David Gregory, 2017-07-05 The PARIS 4 conference which took place at the National Museum of Denmark in 2011 attracted over 100 participants from 18 countries Delegates presented and discussed the latest developments in the field of Preserving Archaeological Remains In Situ These proceedings explore four major themes rates of degradation in archaeological remains and the limits of acceptable change the techniques and duration of monitoring on archaeological sites the role of multinational standards when the sites and national legislations are so variable reviewing the effectiveness of in situ preservation after nearly two decades of research A special issue of Conservation and Management of Archaeological Sites Vol 14 Nos 1 4 Making One's Way in the World Martin Bell, 2020-02-28 The book draws on the evidence of landscape archaeology palaeoenvironmental studies ethnohistory and animal tracking to address the neglected topic of how we identify and interpret past patterns of movement in the landscape It challenges the pessimism of previous generations which regarded prehistoric routes such as hollow ways as generally undatable The premise is that archaeologists tend to focus on sites while neglecting the patterns of habitual movement that made them part of living landscapes Evidence of past movement is considered in a multi scalar way from the individual footprint to the long distance path including the traces created in vegetation by animal and human movement It is argued that routes may be perpetuated over long timescales creating landscape structures which influence the activities of subsequent generations In other instances radical changes of axes of communication and landscape structures provide evidence of upheaval and social change Palaeoenvironmental and ethnohistorical evidence from the American North West coast sets the scene with evidence for the effects of burning animal movement faeces deposition and transplantation which can create readable routes along which are favoured resources Evidence from European hunter gatherer sites hints at similar practices of niche construction on a range of spatial scales On a local scale footprints help to establish axes of movement the locations of lost settlements and activity areas Wood trackways likewise provide evidence of favoured patterns of movement and past settlement location Among early farming communities alignments of burial mounds enclosure entrances and other monuments indicate axes of communication From the middle Bronze Age in Europe there is more clearly defined evidence of trackways flanked by ditches and fields Landscape scale survey and excavation enables the dating of trackways using spatial relationships with dated features and many examples indicate long term continuity of routeways Where fields flank routeways a range of methods including scientific approaches provide dates Prehistorians have often assumed that Ridgeways provided the main axes of early movement but there is little evidence for their early origins and rather better evidence for early routes crossing topography and providing connections between different environmental zones The book concludes with a case study of the Weald of South East England which demonstrates that some axes of cross topographic movement used as droveways and generally considered as early medieval can be shown to be of prehistoric origin One reason that dryland routes have proved difficult to recognise is that insufficient attention has been paid to the parts played by riverine and maritime longer distance communication It is argued that understanding the origins of the paths we use today contributes to appreciation of the distinctive qualities of landscapes Appreciation will help to bring about effective strategies for conservation of mutual benefit to people and wildlife by maintaining and enhancing corridors of connectivity between different landscape zones including fragmented nature reserves and valued places In these ways an understanding of past routeways can contribute to sustainable landscapes communities and quality of life
