Tree and Serpent: Early Buddhist Art in India John S. Guy,2023-07-17 A pioneering study of the emergence of Buddhist art in southern India featuring vibrant photography of rare works many published here for the first time Named for two primary motifs in Buddhist art the sacred bodhi tree and the protective snake Tree Serpent Early Buddhist Art in India is the first publication to foreground devotional works produced in the Deccan from 200 BCE to 400 CE Unlike traditional narratives which focus on northern India where the Buddha was born taught and died this groundbreaking book presents Buddhist art from monastic sites in the south Long neglected this is among the earliest surviving bodies of Buddhist art and among the most sublimely beautiful An international team of researchers contributes new scholarship on the sculptural and devotional art associated with Buddhism and masterpieces from recently excavated Buddhist sites are published here for the first time including Kanaganahalli and Phanigiri the most important new discoveries in a generation With its exploration of Buddhism s emergence in southern India as well as of India s deep commercial and cultural engagement with the Hellenized and Roman worlds this definitive study expands our understanding of the origins of Buddhist art itself

Space and the Production of Cultural Difference among the Akha Prior to Globalization Deborah Tooker,2025-10-01 Based on the author s extensive fieldwork among the Akha people prior to full nation state integration this illuminating study critically re examines assumptions about space power and the politics of identity so often based on modern western contexts Tooker explores the active role that spatial practices and their indigenous link to a life force have played in maintaining cultural autonomy in an historically migratory multiethnic context Space and the Production of Cultural Difference Among the Akha Prior to Globalization Channeling the Flow of Life expands current debates about power relations in the region from a mostly political and economic framework into the domains of ritual cosmology and indigenous meaning and social systems

The Malay Peninsula Micheal Jacq-Hergoualc'h,2002 This book attempts to give an accurate history of the Malay peninsula from the first centuries of the Chrisitan era to the 14th century a story of city states and chiefdoms directly connected with the commercial relationship of the maritime Silk Road

New Approaches to the Study of Religion: Regional, critical, and historical approaches Peter Antes, Armin W. Geertz, Randi Ruth Warne, 2004 Internationally recognized scholars from many parts of the world provide a critical survey of recent developments and achievements in the global field of religious studies. The work follows in the footsteps of two former publications: Classical Approaches to the Study of Religion edited by Jacques Waardenburg (1973) and Contemporary Approaches to the Study of Religion edited by Frank Whaling (1984-85). New Approaches to the Study of Religion completes the survey of the comparative study of religion in the twentieth century by focussing on the past two decades. Many of the chapters however are also pathbreaking and point the way to future approaches.

The Rise and Fall of the Communist Party of Burma (CPB) Bertil Lintner, 1990. A well documented and extremely engaging account of the Burmese Communist Party that details the development of the Party and the events and forces that led to the 1989 Mutiny and subsequent fall of the CPB. This study explores the ethnic tensions that influenced the attitudes of the rank and file members, the support and influence of the Chinese Communist Party, the Party's involvement in the drug trade and the complex antagonistic relationship between the CPB and the military regime of Burma.

Political Legitimacy in Southeast Asia Muthiah Alagappa, 1995. Despite the end of the Cold War, security continues to be a critical concern of Asian states. Allocations of state revenues to the security sector continue to be substantial and have in fact increased in several countries. As Asian nations construct a new security architecture for the Asia Pacific region, Asian security has received increased attention by the scholarly community. But most of that scholarship has focused on specific issues or selected countries. This book aims to lay the groundwork for a comprehensive in depth understanding of Asian security by investigating conceptions of security in sixteen Asian countries. The book undertakes an ethnographic country by country study of how Asian states conceive of their security. For each country it identifies and explains the security concerns and behavior of central decision makers, asking who or what is to be protected against, what potential threats and how security policies have changed over time. This inside out or bottom up approach facilitates both identification of similarities and differences in the security thinking and practice of Asian countries and exploration of their consequences. The crucial insights into the dynamics of international security in the region provided by this approach can form the basis for further inquiry including debates about the future of the region.

Interpreting Development John L. S. Girling, 2018-05-31. A study of rapid capitalist development in Thailand and the rivalries generated not only between the older bureaucracy and the newer rising entrepreneurial elite but also between urban and rural entrepreneurs. Girling explores the classic problems associated with capitalism and democracy: the dangers and exhilaration of nationalist sentiment, the contradictions inherent in Thai development and the rise of the middle class. His work is a fascinating reconsideration of problems that have faced many theorists.
