A Synoptic History of Classical Rhetoric James Jerome Murphy, 1972 A Synoptic History of Classical Rhetoric
James Jerome Murphy, Richard A. Katula, Donovan J. Ochs, Forbes I. Hill, Prentice A. Mendor, 1995 The purpose of history is to help people understand the present by providing a sense of continuity to their lives The history of western civilization begins in Ancient Greece So much of what we observe around us art architecture poetry drama and political systems is derived from the Greeks Even religious beliefs and beliefs about the solar system emanate from the writings of Greek and Roman philosophers Writing itself is a phenomenon of Greek civilization Students seeking to understand the social impact of technologies such as writing print and television must begin their study with figures such as Socrates who was one of the first to be concerned with the changes in social interaction and consciousness wrought by the emergence of writing on portable material For students of language an awareness of the classical world is particularly important The study of human discourse is an entirely western phenomenon As far as one can judge from surviving evidence the Greeks were the only people of the ancient world who endeavored to analyze the ways in which human beings communicate with each other Greece is therefore the birthplace of the art of discourse which includes not only rhetoric but also logic and grammar Although many other ancient civilizations produced literature only the Greeks produced analytic expository treatises that attempted to discover the actual bases of human communication Written treatises and school systems which allowed rhetorical discoveries to be transmitted to others enabled the Greeks and later the Romans to amass a considerable body of precepts to guide speakers and writers This body of precepts forms the basis for the study of rhetoric the art of human discourse This book provides a clear understanding of the classical roots of rhetoric While no single volume can account for every idea developed by the ancients on the art of rhetoric this book seeks to present the concepts that will most effectively provide today's student with a basis for understanding human communication The text contains essays about the period original treatises by ancient writers with modern analyses that elaborate on their rhetorical precepts and representative speeches given by celebrated orators of the ancient world In addition a bibliography of readings is presented for those who want to study this period more deeply A Synoptic History of Classical Rhetoric Richard C. Blakeman, 1977

Classical Rhetoric in English, 1650-1800 Tania Sona Smith, 2020-11-04 Classical Rhetoric in English 1650 1800 features English translations of the era's most cherished Greek and Roman orators, rhetorical philosophers and rhetorical critics. The publication history reveals how a distinctive British canon emerged from selected works by Plato, Isocrates, Demosthenes, Aristotle, Theophrastus, Cicero, Seneca, Quintilian, Tacitus, and Longinus. Works by these ten authors, especially Cicero and Longinus, were widely disseminated, becoming key texts in the formation of British rhetorical culture. At the core of the volume, annotated selections offer the twenty-first century reader a sampling of these classical rhetorical works in translation. The glossary of rhetorical criticism elucidates the now archaic meanings of words that enabled citizens to communicate their moral and rhetorical taste.

Rhetoric in the Middle Ages James Jerome Murphy, 1981-01-01 Follows the threads of ancient rhetorical theory into the Middle Ages and examines the distinctly Medieval rhetorical genres of perceptive grammar, letter writing, and preaching. These various forms are compared with one another and placed in the context of Medieval society. Covering the period 426 A.D. to 14

The Contemporary Reception of Classical Rhetoric Kathleen E. Welch, 2013-11-05 Responding to the reassertion of orality in the twentieth century in the form of electronic media such as the telegraph, film, video, computers, and television, this unique volume traces the roots of classical rhetoric in the modern world. Welch begins by changing the current view of classical rhetoric by reinterpreting the existing texts into fluid language contexts, a change that requires relinquishing the formulaic tradition, acquiring an awareness of translation issues, and constructing a classical rhetoric beginning with the Fifth Century B.C. She continues with a discussion of the adaptability of this material to new language situations, including political, cultural, and linguistic change, providing it with much of its power as well as its longevity. The book concludes that classical rhetoric can readily address any situation since it focuses not only on critical stances toward discourse that already exists but also presents elaborate theories for the production of new discourse.

Jesus, Rhetoric and Law Henderson, 2021-09-06 This study locates pre-gospel orality and gospel literacy within Greco-Roman rhetorical norms for education and performance. Heavy use of a few basic rhetorical conventions marks the gospel tradition as a marginal yet rhetorically competent attempt to create a Christian public. The book identifies gnomic sayings as the thickest available sample of gospel rhetorics, an alternative to samples based on chreia and parable. Gnome use is central throughout ancient rhetorical theory and practice. Gnome is therefore an especially good focus for comparative study, particularly of characterisation and legal topicality. This work establishes a credible model of interaction among the speech habits of Jesus, those of early Christian oral tradition, and the innovative rhetorics of gospel and epistolary texts. The plurality of rhetorical criticisms current in New Testament studies is also addressed.

Eberly, 2008-10-29 The SAGE Handbook of Rhetorical Studies surveys the latest advances in rhetorical scholarship synthesizing theories and practices across major areas of study in the field and pointing the way for future studies Edited by Andrea A Lunsford and Associate Editors Kirt H Wilson and Rosa A Eberly the Handbook aims to introduce a new generation of students to rhetorical study and provide a deeply informed and ready resource for scholars currently working in the field
