The Future of Indigenous Museums Nick Stanley, 2008 Indigenous museums and cultural centres have sprung up across the developing world and particularly in the Southwest Pacific This book looks to the future of museum practice through examining how these museums have evolved to incorporate the present and the future in the display of culture Refugee Encounters at the Turkish-Syrian Border Şule Can, 2019-10-08 The Turkish Syrian borderlands host almost half of the Syrian refugees with an estimated 1.5 million people arriving in the area following the outbreak of the Syrian civil war. This book investigates the ongoing negotiations of ethnicity, religion, and state at the border as refugees struggle to settle and to navigate their encounters with the Turkish state and with different sectarian groups. In particular, the book explores the situation in Antakya, the site of the ancient city of Antioch, the cradle of civilizations and now populated by diverse populations of Arab Alawites, Christians, and Sunni Turks. The book demonstrates that urban refugee encounters at the margins of the state reveal larger concerns that encompass state practices and regional politics. Overall, the book shows how and why displacement in the Middle East is intertwined with negotiations of identity, politics, and state. Faced with an environment of everyday oppression, refugees negotiate their own urban space and refugee status, challenging, resisting, and sometimes confirming sectarian boundaries. This book's detailed analysis will be of interest to anthropologists, geographers, sociologists, historians, and Middle Eastern studies scholars who are working on questions of displacement, cultural boundaries, and the politics of civil war in border regions.
