Swimming At Midnight Selected Shorter Poems:

Swimming at Midnight John Matthias, 1995 Swimming at Midnight collects the short and middle length poems from John Matthias's earlier books together with twenty poems that have previously appeared only in magazines. It is published simultaneously with Beltane at Aphelion which includes all of Matthias's longer poems. The two books together represent some thirty years of his work. The poems in Swimming at Midnight range from early lyrics written in America during the late 1960s to meditative poems dealing with historical geographical and cultural themes deriving from Matthias's years in England in the seventies and eighties. They include the epistolary poems from Turns, Poem for Cynouai from Crossing A Wind in Roussillon from Northern Summer and the formal experiments engaging issues of poetics and metaphysics for which Matthias is well known. The book concludes with a section of new poems and translations dealing both with the public world of modern history and the private experience of life in the century's final decade. The last poem of all connects the work in Swimming at Midnight with the last of the long poems in Beltane at Aphelion. Critics have been warm in their praise of Matthias's work. Robert Duncan called his early poetry the work of a Goliard, one of those wandering souls out of a Dark Age in our own time. And Guy Davenport has said that his recent work makes him one of the leading poets in the USA. D. M. Thomas in the TLS admired the virtuosity of Turns and the way life presses into the poems while John Fuller in the same journal found the poems in Crossing bursting with a masterful intelligence. In a long essay on Northern Summer Jeremy Hooker wrote: 'In his combination of lyrical and discursive voices as in subject and concern Matthias has an exciting range. He writes in some poems from a tension between a scribe's respect for the integrity of his materials and a magician's freedom to transform them and in many poems he brings together the contrasting gifts and is fully present as himself both scribe and magician.'

What Are Poets For? Gerald L. Bruns, 2012-06. Conceptions and practices of poetry change not only from time to time and from place to place but also from poet to poet. This has never been more the case than in recent years. Gerald Bruns's magisterial What Are Poets For explores typographical experiments that distribute letters randomly across a printed page, sound tracks made of vocal and buccal noises and holographic poems that recompose themselves as one travels through their digital space. Bruns surveys one word poems, found texts and book length assemblies of disconnected phrases; he even includes descriptions of poems that no one could possibly write but which are no less interesting or no less poetic for all of that. The purpose of the book is to illuminate this strange poetic landscape, spotlighting and describing such oddities as they appear, anomalies that most contemporary poetry criticism ignores. Naturally this breadth raises numerous philosophical questions that Bruns also addresses: for example, whether poetry should be responsible semantically, ethically, politically to anything outside itself, whether it can be reduced to categories, distinctions and the rule of identity, and whether a particular poem can seem odd or strange when everything is an anomaly. Perhaps our task is simply to learn like anthropologists how to inhabit such an anarchic world. The poets taken up for study are among the most important and innovative in the late
