Sydney Biography Of A City:

Sydney Lucy Turnbull, 1999-10      Sydney Lucy Turnbull, 1999 Sydney has travelled a long way since 1788 when the First Fleet arrived. Back then the region was occupied by a few thousand Aborigines who had lived their lives undisturbed for at least 20 000 years. This soon changed. In the early days of European settlement or invasion colonial Sydney was no more than a camp, a struggling and hungry penal outpost perched precariously on the coast of a huge, largely unknown and relatively arid continent. Sydney is the biography of a vibrant and changing city famous for its opera house, its harbour, bridge, perfect beaches, the sparkling harbour and now as the upcoming backdrop to the 2000 Olympics. Lucy Turnbull traces the city's humble beginnings, touching on its urban and social history, giving life to the events that have changed the course of Sydney's development from penal colony to a sophisticated and cultural city of the twentieth century. This biography focuses on important and significant social and political events that have shaped the city and includes stories of personalities, social and political leaders, gossip, scandal and legends, creating a living history of Sydney. From the landing of the First Fleet and the establishment of the colony to the landmark buildings that were created and still exist, the Opera House controversy, the Green Bans of the 1970s and the constantly changing makeup of the Australian population are just a few of the events that are included in this extensively researched book. Sydney is illustrated with 80 colour and 150 black and white photographs, paintings and engravings sourced from the National Library, the NSW State Library, the Art Gallery of New South Wales and personal archive and art collections. About the Author: Deputy President of the Australian Museum Trust, President of the Sydney Children's Hospital Foundation, member of NSW Cancer Council, A solicitor of the Supreme Court of New South Wales. Selling Points: This book will tap into the local market as well as the tourist market. Provides a mix of anecdotes throughout history, gossip, social comment as well as providing historical fact. Foreword by Thomas Kenneally, author of The Great Shame. The information is carefully researched by the author and provides up to the minute information on landmarks, points of interest around Sydney. 80 colour photos and 150 black and white photos throughout the book. Extensive bibliography and index. The author has extensive media, legal and political contacts that she is prepared to use for promotion of the book.

From Bondi to the City Richard B. Sappey, 2014-06-06 This book is a history of what it was like to grow up in Sydney during the 1950s and 1960s. This world was observed through the eyes of a child and young man. The memories travel through Bondi in the 1950s from the Astra Hotel, boarding houses, flats, small struggling shops, going to school, playing cricket and tennis, all at a time when Australia itself was young and growing. The golden fifties launched people into expanded hope through cars, weekends, their own homes and plentiful work. There is the tranquillity of Pittwater, a glassy stretch of water and deep bush where people cherished their weekends in small fibro cottages and tiny boats. The journey goes to the old harbour of ships and wharves and nights at the speedway. Life included Anzac Day marches, sample bags at the Royal Easter Show, street football, Empire Day bonfires and the lady who read the tea leaves and the Menzies sympathisers and Commos in the family The world of work was also a journey through running deliveries in school holidays small factory life in Balmain and office work in the city The city moved quickly in terms of what jobs disappeared the rise and fall of businesses and what they sold and the flattening of old buildings and the rise of the glittering towers The city was part of life it sparkled enticed threatened expanded freedom challenged everything and never let you forget what it did and what you did Sydney's Food Landscapes Joshua Zeunert, Alys Daroy, 2025-06-20 The story of Sydney's metropolitan food landscapes is one of dramatic transformations of First Nations land amidst jostles for power and wealth This book unearths Sydney's lost commercial agriculture since colonisation in 1788 to assess its fragile food futures Richly illustrated 270 images are encapsulated within 110 figures including an array of original metropolitan scale mappings Discussion traverses the city's diverse cultural influences from Indigenous land management to British pastoralism Chinese cultivation of Sydney's backyard vegetable garden and southern European farming spawning billion dollar empires The region has further been shaped by a vast array of cultural and ideological factors and material practices with relevance to planning policy ethics geography heritage art design and technology This book is the first to bring Sydney's disparate post colonial food histories together in one volume to explore the dynamics and tensions between urban growth and food production The relevance of Sydney's food landscapes therefore extends far wider than the city itself with implications for countless regions worldwide in a time of increasing climate and resource precarity The Natural History of Sydney Daniel Lunney, Pat Hutchings, Dieter Hochuli, 2009-09-01 On 3 November 2007 the Royal Zoological Society of NSW held its annual forum with the topic being The natural history of Sydney It has remained as the title of this book The program contained the following introduction as the theme of the forum and it has remained as the theme for this book Sydney has a unique natural history providing a home for iconic animals and plants while remaining a global city It captured the imagination of prominent naturalists and inspired visits and collecting trips to the infant colony of New South Wales in the late 1790s and early to late 1800s From these collections flowed great descriptive works detailing the new and unusual animals and plants of the antipodes Gould Owen Huxley Peron Banks and many others recounted new and evocative flora and fauna Many collecting trips for the great museums and institutions in Europe began in Sydney Sydney still continues to engage naturalists and those grappling with the current drama of climate change and conservation The Royal Zoological Society of New South Wales founded in Sydney in 1879 is a product of the grand 19th century tradition of natural history with a particular emphasis on animal life Sydney is also home to some of Australia's oldest and finest institutions such as the Australian Museum the University of Sydney and the Royal Botanic Gardens Throughout Sydney there are places where the natural habitat has not been supplanted by urban growth and the interest in Sydney's endemic flora and fauna remains strong This forum draws on a magnificent interdisciplinary vision while continuing to employ all the modern tools in the investigation and communication of Sydney's natural history It reflects a resurgence in local history and pursues the natural history of our harbour side city in a modern framework The day of the forum was a captivating display of the diversity of the fauna of Sydney both native and introduced and its varied habitats and of the diverse ways of appreciating natural history including the history of natural history. Also on display was the depth of scholarship lying behind each of the presentations. The subject clearly has a profound hold on many professional biologists, historians and those keen to conserve their local area but if the day is any guide there are vastly more people living in or visiting Sydney who have more than a passing interest in this topic. The subject matter ranged from the history of institutions engaged in natural history through animal groups as diverse as reptiles and cicadas to ideas on how to see Sydney as a natural setting. Other papers dealt with the use by Aboriginal people of the native biota in terms of fishing and being displayed in rock paintings before the arrival of the colonists. There is little doubt that this theme could run to 10 volumes not just this one but the diversity of ideas, skills and organisms displayed in this one book will serve as a guide to what lies beyond these pages. A considerable effort was made by each author to present their material as both interesting and accurate. The material is built on lifetimes of sustained effort to study, record and communicate findings and ideas. It is also built on the lifetime work of our predecessors who laboured to find and record the natural history of Sydney. We are indebted to their efforts. This book records not only the outcome of a successful day of presentations but more importantly the lifelong scholarship of those authors in each of the specialist fields. Not only have the authors been absorbed by documenting the biodiversity they have included studies or intelligent speculation on the factors which have impacted on this diversity since Cook sailed along the NSW coast in 1770. The Macquarie Dictionary e.g. the revised third edition defines natural history as the science or study dealing with all objects in nature and the aggregate of knowledge connected with such knowledge. This makes natural history of wide interest to the entire community of Sydney both residents and visitors. However we have specialised to the extent that we have focused principally on fauna, the RZS being a zoological society. Nevertheless plant communities are recognised as part and parcel of the natural history of Sydney as is a sense of the geography of the city with its magnificent harbour, sandstone backdrop and spectacular national parks surrounding the city. Also of great importance is how others in the past have seen the natural history of what is now called Sydney. All these ideas are captured in this book. One of the strengths of being a naturalist, i.e. one who is versed in or devoted to natural history, especially a zoologist or botanist, Macquarie Dictionary is the opportunity to look across the individual disciplines, be it a specialist in birds, mammals or polychaetes, a taxonomist or an ecologist or writer. Their advantage is the ability to see the richness of a place such as Sydney. Consequently most botanists and zoologists have one or two highly specialised skills but a keen interest in the broader picture and can thus appreciate the importance of, for example, cave art or fish diversity in the harbour and recognise that the vertebrate fauna of Sydney has changed over the 222 years since European settlement and no doubt the invertebrate fauna has changed although it is less easily assessed. Our aim in this book is to draw attention to the natural history of Sydney for scholars as well as those who have the task of looking after a particular area such as within a local government area or a particular taxon.

such as reptiles or fish and those who have the opportunity to conserve areas taxa or institutions through their employment or legislative responsibilities It is also for teachers and lecturers colleagues in other cities and towns in Australia and those with a keen interest in managing our urban wildlife our cultural heritage or promoting the profound value of our natural heritage within a city landscape It also displays the importance of museum and herbarium collections in documenting the changes since 1770

Making Space Andrew MacLaran,2014-04-04 Making Space studies the built environment by examining the private sector forces responsible for its development and the urban planning systems put in place to influence guide and manipulate its outcomes The first part provides a theoretical context for understanding the functions of the property development sector and the state s interventions through the medium of urban planning It analyses the relationship between planning and development and focuses on the increasingly widespread adoption of more pro active entrepreneurial planning agendas as a response to a growing disenchantment with traditional regulatory approaches The second part comprises case studies drawn from Australia New Zealand the USA the United Kingdom and Ireland which investigate the ways in which urban planning in different socio political contexts has influenced the outcomes of the property development process as well as the manner in which such planning systems have changed in order to enhance their influence

Stranger Cities: Australian Creation and the Ambidextrous Mind, a Profile of Portal Modernity Peter Murphy,2023-06-19 Stranger Cities explores the metaphysics of Australian society and the clash between its competing strands of romantic culture and classic civilization The social expression artistic resonance economic significance civic character historic phases mythic representations creative antinomies and imaginative contribution of these metaphysical fundamentals form the background of Australia s distinctive urban civilization with its bustling stranger populations ocean facing portal cities revealing art and architecture and cyclical worlds of markets and industries war and peace Murphy portrays a classic eudemonic society whose dominant ethos of phlegmatic happiness vies with a subsidiary current of melancholic and choleric romanticism

Process and the City Peter Williams, 2019-03-08 Contemporary urban studies engages a wide range of approaches in the analysis of the processes at work in urban areas. These approaches derive from anthropology, economics, geography, history, politics, and sociology, as well as from the professional experience of town planning and architecture. Social process and the city reflects this growing cross-disciplinary engagement. This shows the important problematic role which cities in particular and urban change in general have played in the growth of Australia. The overriding concern of each essay in this collection is to develop an understanding of the ways urban areas function and an awareness of how differing interpretations of urban phenomena might be applied. This attention to the nature of the forces at work and the processes these forces manifest themselves in is extended both empirically and conceptually. This book was first published in 1983 Australian

Dictionary of Biography, Volume 19 Melanie Nolan, 2021-03-09 Volume 19 of the Australian Dictionary of Biography (ADB) contains concise biographies of individuals who died between 1991 and 1995. The first of two volumes for the 1990s, it presents a colourful montage of late twentieth-century Australian life, containing the biographies of significant and representative Australians. The volume is still in the shadow of World War II, with servicemen and women who enlisted young appearing, but these influences are dimming, and there are now increasing numbers of non-white, non-male, non-privileged, and non-straight subjects. The 680 individuals recorded in volume 19 of the ADB include Wiradjuri midwife and Ngannawal Elder Violet Bulger, Aboriginal rights activist, poet, playwright, and artist Kevin Gilbert, and Torres Strait Islander community leader and land rights campaigner Eddie Mabo. HIV/AIDS child activists Tony Lovegrove and Eve Van Grafhorst have entries, as does conductor Stuart Challender, the first Australian celebrity to go public about his HIV/AIDS condition in 1991. The arts are always well represented, including writers Frank Hardy, Mary Durack, and Nene Gare; actors Frank Thring and Leonard Teale; and arts patron Ian Potter. We are beginning to see the effects of the steep rise in postwar immigration, from flow through to the ADB. Artist Joseph Stanislaw Ostoja, Kotkowski, was born in Poland. Pilar Moreno de Otaegui co-founded the Spanish Club of Sydney. Chinese restaurateur and community leader Ming Poon Dick Low migrated to Victoria in 1953. Often we have a dearth of information about the domestic lives of our subjects. Politician Olive Zakharov, however, bravely disclosed at the Victorian launch of the federal government's campaign to Stop Violence Against Women in 1993 that she was a survivor of domestic violence in her second marriage. Take a dip into the many fascinating lives of the Australian Dictionary of Biography.

Encyclopaedia of Contemporary Biography, of Pennsylvania ..., 1898 Herringshaw's City Blue Book of Biography, 1919 Transit Life David Bissell, 2018-03-23 An exploration of the ways that everyday life in the city is defined by commuting. We spend much of our lives in transit to and from work. Although we might dismiss our daily commute as a wearying slog, we rarely stop to think about the significance of these daily journeys. In Transit Life, David Bissell explores how everyday life in cities is increasingly defined by commuting. Examining the overlooked events and encounters of the commute.

Bissell shows that the material experiences of our daily journeys are transforming life in our cities. The commute is a time where some of the most pressing tensions of contemporary life play out, striking at the heart of such issues as our work-life balance, our relationships with others, our sense of place and our understanding of who we are. Drawing on in-depth fieldwork with commuters, journalists, transit advocates, policymakers and others in Sydney, Australia, Transit Life takes a holistic perspective to change how we think about commuting. Rather than arguing that transport infrastructure investment alone can solve our commuting problems, Bissell explores the more subtle but powerful forms of social change that commuting creates. He examines the complex politics of urban mobility through multiple dimensions, including the competencies that commuters develop over time, commuting dispositions and the social life of the commute, the multiple temporalities of commuting, the experience of commuting spaces from footpath to on-ramp, both physical and digital, the voices of commuting from private rants to drive-time radio and the interplay of materialities, ideas, advocates and organizations in commuting infrastructures.

Visual Heritage: Digital Approaches in Heritage Science Eugene Ch'ng, Henry Chapman, Vincent Gaffney, Andrew S. Wilson, 2022-04-05. How we understand our shared and individual heritage, interpret and disseminate that knowledge is increasingly central to contemporary society. The emerging context for such development is the field of heritage science. Inherently interdisciplinary and involving both the Arts and Humanities, engineering, conservation and the digital sciences, the development of heritage science is a driver for change, socially, economically and technically. This book has gathered contributions from leading researchers from across the world and provides a series of themed contributions demonstrating the theoretical, ethical, methodological and technical methods which lie at the heart of heritage science. Archaeology, conservation, museology, the arts, forensic sciences and heritage management are represented through collaborative research with specialists in applied technologies, including object and terrestrial laser scanning, multi-spectral imaging, visualisation, GIS and 3D printing. Together, the chapters present important case studies to demonstrate the recent advances and best practice within the discipline, highlighting the value of digital transformation across the heritage community that includes objects, monuments, sites and landscapes spanning two million years of natural and cultural history from all over the world. Visual Heritage: Digital Approaches in Heritage Science is aimed at a broad academic and practice-led readership which extends across many disciplines and will be of considerable value to scholars, practitioners and students working within heritage and computer science at all levels. The content, which applies heritage science across two million years of cultural history, will be appreciated by a general audience as well as those wishing simply to explore the vast range of potential technical applications across all the disciplines represented in the book.
