STEPHEN FRY Coastal Management in Australia Nick Harvey, Brian Caton, 2010 The coast is one of our most valuable assets but how is it being treated and what is being done to look after it COASTAL MANAGEMENT IN AUSTRALIA is the first book to provide a comprehensive overview of this important subject Interesting case studies are used to illustrate human impact on coastal processes as well as demonstrating the global significance of the coast and the international imperative to manage it properly COASTAL MANAGEMENT IN AUSTRALIA introduces the background to the various coastal management systems operating in Australia and illustrates these with real world examples from the different states and territories Since this book was first published yet another parliamentary inquiry has been added to some 30 years of national inquiries into coastal management with further calls for national co ordination In addition the Australian government has focused attention on the potential risks of climate change for the Australian coast Both authors have national and international coastal expertise significant academic teaching experience in coastal processes and coastal management coastal planning and policy skills and have extensive government expertise in coastal management Sydney I. Kepars, 2000 Retired from a long career at the National Library of Australia Kepars cites and evaluates 441 references on the capital of New South Wales the host

Sydney Evan McHugh,Peter Turner,2013 Previous ed published by Evan McHugh 1999

Recreational Uses of Coastal Areas P. Fabbri,2012-12-06 Human clustering in coastal areas The coastal zone has gained a solid reputation as a place vocated for recreational activities and this is generally related to the presence of the sea The relationship however does not appear univocal or simple the sea can be perceived as a hostile element by humans and the more general question of whether the presence of the shore is in itself a favourable repulsive or irrelevant factor to settlement is a debatable point at least for pre industrial societies Back in the early part of the 19th century Friedrich Hegel regarded oceans and rivers as unifying elements rather than dividing ones thus implying a trend towards the concentration of human settlements along them The sea he wrote stimulates 1 courage and conquest as well as profit and plunder although he realized that this did not equally apply to all maritime peoples In Hegel's view different approaches to the sea were mainly the results of cultural factors and in fact he recognized that some people living in coastal areas perceive the sea as a dangerous and alien place and the shore as aftnis terrae
