Tale Of Three Cities Or The Glocalization Of City Management:

A Tale of Three Cities Barbara Czarniawska-Joerges, 2002 Cities are complex sprawling diverse places They are organized but disorganized managed but unmanaged orderly but disorderly Modern metropolitan cities reproduce themselves and we are familiar with the common icons that are replicated in every part of the globe but how should we understand cities For the past five years Professor Czarniawska has been leading a research project on globalization and the management of cities Rather than seeing the city as a conurbation or a location of economic activity or in terms of governance and administration Czarniawska explores the city as an action net An action net of this sort includes various organizations municipal state private and voluntary and non organized individuals Such an approach was designed to avoid the fallacy of viewing the big city as one big organization The city is thus conceived as a particularly complex and disorderly action net a seamless web of interorganizational networks where the city administration proper constitutes just one point of entry and by no means provides a map of the entire terrain The research focuses on three European capitals Warsaw Stockholm and Rome At the outset leading politicians and officials in each city listed the major problems and projects that the city was engaged in for example environmental reforms improvement of public utilities privatization financial targets etc The author selected a number of these for more detailed study reporting upon interesting similarities and differences between the approaches taken The book aims to explore organizing processes in their local context while following the connections between such contexts

Making Sense of Complexity in Projects Steve Raue, 2024-11-25 This book explores project management PM from a new perspective Project management is facing a paradigmatic stalemate Its major challenge is complexity Its current paradigmatic foundation in first order cybernetics has reached its limits More tools are created and project management is applied to any potential context expecting better results while doing more of the same Beyond conventional project management agile and other project management approaches have emerged as new options to answer the complexity challenge Yet the question remains whether new options and more tools in light of the current shortcomings can create enough momentum for project management as a whole to overcome its paradigmatic stalemate and evolve toward new paradigms based on second order cybernetics This book will embark on a journey to explore current paradigms in project management and argue why an analysis of discourse practices in project management may be critical to generating new paradigmatic perspectives The aim of this book is to provide an alternative perspective on projects as discourses and project management as a means to observe and conduct these discourses Instead of defining what projects and project management are the approach is to look at what people talk about when doing projects and apply project management It will arrive at a picture of how discourses about project management are shaped and institutionalised through the sensemaking of individuals and selected communities in their specific project practice and how these discourses shape project management in turn It is argued that this self reinforcing circle leads to a certain solidification of project management paradigms which prove insufficient in dealing with project complexity. However, it will also be argued that project practitioners can utilise their self-reflection and self-description of these discourse conventions to obtain more meaningful project conversations and arrive at a unified and systemically integrated understanding of project management. This book will be of particular relevance to those interested in current issues underlying project management. More generally, it will be a valuable resource for researchers of project management, organisational studies and governance. The Routledge Companion to Risk, Crisis and Emergency Management Robert P. Gephart, Jr., C. Chet Miller, Karin Svedberg Helgesson, 2018-11-09 This volume provides a comprehensive up-to-date overview of the latest management and organizational research related to risk, crisis and emergency management. It is the first volume to present these separate but related disciplines together. Combined with a distinctly social and organizational science approach to the topics as opposed to engineering or financial economics, the research presented here strengthens the intellectual foundations of the discipline while contributing to the development of the field. The Routledge Companion to Risk, Crisis and Emergency Management promises to be a definitive treatise of the discipline today with contributions from several key academics from around the world. It will prove a valuable reference for students, researchers and practitioners seeking a broad integrative view of risk and crisis management. The Social

Construction of Public Administration Jong S. Jun, 2012-02-01 In this conceptual guided tour of contemporary public administration, Jong S. Jun challenges the limitations of the discipline which he argues make it inadequate for understanding today's complex human phenomena. Drawing on examples and case studies from both Eastern and Western countries, he emphasizes critical and interpretive perspectives as a counterforce to the instrumental technical rationality that reduces the field to structural and functionalist views of management. He also emphasizes the idea of democratic social construction to transcend the field's reliance on conventional pluralist politics. Jun stresses that public administrators and institutions must create opportunities for sharing and learning among organizational members and must facilitate interactive processes between public administrators and citizens so that the latter can voice their problems and opinions. The future role of public administrators will be to transcend the limitations of the management and governing of modern public administration and to explore ways of constructing socially meaningful alternatives through communicative action and the participation of citizens.

Making Prestigious Places Mario Paris, 2017-08-16 Making Prestigious Places investigates the spatial dimension of luxury both as a sector involving activities, operators and investments and as a system of values acting as a catalyst for recent urban transformations. Luxury shares a well-established connection to the city as a place of production, consumption and self-representation and continues to grow despite economic difficulties. This edited collection includes case studies from Europe, North and South America, Asia and the Middle East to create a dialogue around these developments and the challenges presented, such as the tension between the idea of prestige and current values in urban planning, the discussion between academic reflections and operational practices and how these interact with the long-term economic and social dynamic of the city With rich analysis and a preface written by Patsy Healey this book will be an important addition to the discourse on luxury for urban planners and researchers

Urban Regeneration and Neoliberalism Clare Kinsella, 2020-10-29 This book explores the concept of home in Liverpool over phases of regeneration following the Second World War Using qualitative research in the oral history tradition it explores what the author conceptualises as forward facing regeneration in the period up to the 1980s and neoliberal regeneration interventions that prioritise the past from the 1980s to the present The author examines how the shift towards city centre focused redevelopment and event led initiatives has implications for the way residents make sense of their conceptualisations of home and demonstrates how the shift in regeneration focus discourse and practice away from Liverpool s neighbourhood districts and towards the city centre has produced changes in the ways that residents identify with neighbourhoods and the city centre with prominence being given to the latter Employing Pierre Bourdieu s concepts of habitus and field as mechanisms for understanding different senses of home and shifts from localised views to globalised views this book will appeal to those with interests in urban sociology regeneration geography sociology home cultures and cities

Höllerer, Thibault Daudigeos, Dennis Jancsary, 2017-12-06 This volume focuses on the relationship between different modes in the emergence diffusion maintenance and or challenge of social meanings and institutions The contributions demonstrate the potential of multimodal approaches to advance the design of rigorous methods of analysis for the study of multimodal communicative practices

Handbook of Gender, Work and Organization Emma Jeanes, David Knights, Patricia Yancey Martin, 2012-04-16 This work of reference represents a remarkably complete detailed and extensive review of the field of gender work and organization in the second decade of the 21st century Its authors represent eight countries and many disciplines including management sociology political science and gender studies The chapters by top scholars in their areas of expertise offer both reviews and empirical findings and insights and challenges for further work The chapters are organized in five sections Histories and Philosophies Organizing Work and the Gendered Organization Embodiment Globalization and Diversity Theoretical and conceptual developments at the cutting edge of the field are explicated and illustrated by the handbook's authors Methods for conducting research into gender work and organization are reviewed and assessed as well as illustrated in the work of several chapters Efforts to produce greater gender equality in the workplace are covered in nearly every chapter in terms of past successes and failures Military organizations are presented as one of the difficult to change in regards to gender with the result that women are marginalized in practice even when official policies and goals require their full inclusion. The role of the body embodiment is emphasized in several chapters with attention both to how organizations discipline bodies and how organizational members use their bodies to gain advantage. Particular attention is paid to sexuality in and organizations including sexual harassment policies to alleviate bias and the likelihood that future work will pay more attention to the body's presence and role in work and organizations. Many chapters also address change efforts that have been employed by individuals, groups, and organizations including transnational ones such as the European Union, the United Nations, and so on. In addition to its value for teachers and students within this field, it also offers insights that would be of value to policymakers and practitioners who need to reflect on the latest thinking relating to gender at work and in organizations.

Public Innovation through Collaboration and Design Christopher Ansell, Jacob Torfing, 2014-06-20 While innovation has long been a major topic of research and scholarly interest for the private sector, it is still an emerging theme in the field of public management. While results oriented public management may be here to stay, scholars and practitioners are now shifting their attention to the process of management and to how the public sector can create value. One of the urgent needs addressed by this book is a better specification of the institutional and political requirements for sustaining a robust vision of public innovation through the key dimensions of collaboration, creative problem solving, and design. This book brings together empirical studies drawn from Europe, the USA, and the antipodes to show how these dimensions are important features of public sector innovation in many Western democracies with different conditions and traditions. This volume provides insights for practitioners who are interested in developing an innovation strategy for their city, agency, or administration and will be essential reading for scholars, practitioners, and students in the field of public policy and public administration.

User-based Innovation in Services Jon Sundbo, Marja Toivonen, 2011-01-01 This book demonstrates pioneering work on user based service innovation using an analytical framework. This approach involves understanding the needs of users, the service firms collaborating with them, and recognising the fact that users are innovators and as such services develop whilst in use. As well as presenting case studies, the book discusses theoretically what user based innovation means in the context of services. Three main fields are analysed: user based innovation in knowledge intensive business service, user based innovation in public services, and models and methods for structuring user based innovation. Incorporating both an academic and analytical approach, this insightful book will be a source of inspiration for researchers in innovation and services. Graduate and postgraduate students in business administration and innovation, as well as administrators in public administrations and executive managers in service firms, will also find plenty of important information in this invaluable resource.

Handbook of Institutional Approaches to International Business Geoffrey Wood, Mehmet Demirbag, 2012-01-01 The latest generation of research in comparative institutional analysis of business is impressively captured in this volume. Readers find depth in theory, development, breadth in application to practice and policy, and insight on the big research issues ahead. Both generalist and specialist readers will find much of value here Bruce Evan Kaufman Georgia State University US This inspiring Handbook brings together alternative perspectives from a range of disciplines to shed light on the nature of institutions and their relationship to firm level practices and outcomes across a wide range of national settings Expertly written by leading scholars from a range of different starting points this compendium presents a synthesis of recent work relating to institutionally informed accounts from transitional and emerging markets as well as from mature economies It specifically focuses on the linkage between institutions and what goes on inside firms and the relationship between setting strategic choice and systemic outcomes The Handbook is explicitly multi disciplinary encompassing perspectives from a range of the functional areas of management studies It will prove invaluable for postgraduate students and faculty in international business and the wider research community in the areas of international business corporate governance socio economics and comparative HRM

Inside Immigration Law Tobias G. Eule, 2016-05-23 Inside Immigration Law analyses the practice of implementing immigration law examining the different political and organisational forces that influence the process Based on unparalleled academic access to the German migration management system this book provides new insights into the black box of regulating immigration revealing how the application of immigration law to individual cases can be chaotic improvised and sometimes arbitrary and either informed or distorted by the complex politically laden and changeable nature of both German and EU immigration laws Drawing on extensive empirical material including participant observation interviews and analyses of public as well as confidential documents in German immigration offices Inside Immigration Law unveils the complex practices of decision making and work organisation in a politically contested environment A comparative critical evaluation of the work of offices that examines the discretion and client interactions of bureaucrats the management of legal knowledge and symbolism and the relationships between immigration offices and external political forces this book will be of interest to sociologists legal scholars and political scientists working in the areas of migration integration and the study of work and organisations

Shadowing Barbara Czarniawska-Joerges, 2007 Shadowing offers an array of techniques to study people on the move and the book is addressed to all social scientists interested in fieldwork as a way of grasping phenomena typical of late modernity The book's starting point is that present times require different metaphors than static cultures organizations or even societies It is time to start constructing a mobile ethnology that is knowledge about people objects and ideas that circulate globally The present text offers suggestions concerning the ways such construction may take
