Narrative Therapy Catrina Brown, Tod Augusta-Scott, 2006-08-03 This volume is especially useful in demonstrating the effects of placing social discourses at the center of therapy It goes against many sacred cows of the larger modernist therapeutic community but in doing so it offers new ideas for mental health professionals attempting to help their clients with common and serious life problems

Narrative Therapy is a meaningful contribution to a Canadian book market lacking in clinical literature for social workers

CANADIAN ASSOCIATION OF SOCIAL WORKERS

Narrative Therapy Making Meaning Making Lives offers a comprehensive introduction to and critique of narrative therapy and its theories This edited volume introduces students to the history and theory of narrative therapy

Authors Catrina Brown and Tod Augusta Scott situate this approach to theory and practice within the context of various feminist post modern and critical theories Through the presentation of case studies Narrative Therapy Making Meaning Making Lives shows how this narrative oriented theory can be applied in the client therapist experience Many important therapeutic situations abuse addictions eating disorders and more are addressed from the narrative perspective Rooted in social constructionism and emerging initially from family therapy narrative therapy emphasizes the idea that we live storied lives Within this approach the editors and contributors seek to show how we make sense of our lives and experiences by ascribing meaning through stories which themselves arise within social conversations and culturally available discourses Our stories don't simply represent us or mirror lived events they actually constitute us shaping our lives as well as our relationships

Narrative Therapy will be a valuable supplemental textbook for theory and practice courses in departments of Counseling and Psychotherapy and of Social Work as well as for courses in Gender and Women Studies

Encyclopedia of Stakeholder Management Jacob D. Rendtorff, Maria Bonnafous-Boucher, 2023-02-14 This Encyclopedia provides a comprehensive overview of the most important concepts of stakeholder theory and management in business and public administration It identifies that stakeholders are essential for value creation in democratic societies

The Sociolinguistics of Narrative Joanna Thornborrow, Jennifer Coates, 2005 This book aims to appraise sociolinguistic work devoted to the form and function of storytelling and to examine in detail the ways in which narrative constitutes a fundamental discursive resource across a range of contexts The chapters presented here bring together some of the most recent work in the theory and practice of narrative analysis from a broad sociolinguistic perspective They address some of the questions left implicit whenever stories are brought within the analytic frame of sociolinguistics What exactly do we mean by story what kind of social and contextual variations can determine the production and shape of situated stories and what are the core elements of narrative as a discursive unit and interactional resource how is the relationship between narrative discourse and social context articulated in the construction of cultural identities The data come both from institutional settings such as workplaces courtrooms schools and the media as well as from informal everyday settings Conversation Talmy Givón,1997-01-01 The papers in this volume were originally presented at the Symposium on Conversation held at the University of New Mexico in July 1995 The symposium brought together scholars who work on face to face communication from a variety of perspectives social cultural cognitive and communicative Our aim for both the symposium and this volume has been to challenge some of the prevailing dichotomies in discourse studies First the cleavage between the study of information flow and the study of social interaction Second the theoretical division between speech situation models and cognitive models Third the methodological split between the study of spontaneous conversation in natural context and the study of speech production and comprehension under controlled experimental conditions And fourth the rigid genre distinction between narrative and conversational discourse All four dichotomies have been useful either methodologically or historically But important as they may have been in the past the time has perhaps come to work toward an integrated approach to the study of human communication one that will be less dependent on narrow reductions Both the ontological primacy and the methodological challenge of natural face to face communication are self evident Human language has evolved is acquired and is practiced most commonly in the context of face to face communication Most past theory building in either linguistics or psychology has not benefited from the study of face to face communication a fact that is regrettable and demands rectification We hope that this volume tilts in the right direction The Linguistic Individual Barbara Johnstone,1996 Linguists usually discuss language or dialects in terms of groups of speakers Believing that patterns can be seen more clearly in the group than the individual researchers often present group scores with no indication of the variation within the group Even though linguists acknowledge that no two individuals speak alike few study individual variation and voice Barbara Johnstone makes a case for the individual s importance and idiosyncrasies in language and linguistics Using theoretical arguments and discourse analysis along with linguistic examples from a variety of speakers and settings Johnstone illustrates how speakers draw on linguistic models associated with class ethnicity gender and region among others to construct an individual voice In doing so Johnstone shows that certain important questions in sociolinguistics and pragmatics can only be answered with reference to individual speakers Johnstone s study is important both for the understanding of speech as expressive of self and for the study of variation and mechanisms of linguistic choice and change

Talking, Drawing, Writing Martha Horn,Mary Giacobbe,2023-10-10 In the early grades talking and drawing can provide children with a natural pathway to writing yet these components are often overlooked In Talking Drawing Writing Lessons for Our Youngest Writers authors Martha Horn and Mary Ellen Giacobbe invite readers to join them in classrooms where they listen watch and talk with children then use what they learn to create lessons designed to meet children where they are and lead them into the world of writing The authors make a case for a broader definition of writing advocating for formal storytelling sessions in which children tell about what they know and for focused sketching sessions so that budding writers learn how to observe more carefully The book s lessons are organized by topic and include oral storytelling drawing writing words assessment introducing booklets and moving writers forward Based on the authors work in urban kindergarten and first grade classes the essence and structure of many of the lessons lend themselves to adaptation through fifth grade The lessons follow a consistent format What s going on in the classroom What do children need to learn next Materials needed to teach the lesson Language used in each lesson Reasons behind why certain books are chosen and suggestions for additional children s books The authors show the thinking behind their teaching decisions and provide a way to look at and assess children s writing giving us much more than a book of lessons they present a vision of what beginning writing can look and sound like Perhaps most powerfully they give us examples of the language they use with children that reveal a genuine respect for and trust in children as learners
