information The clear majority of golfers slice their drivers and long clubs and sometimes all clubs or they slice their woods and pull their irons The problem with most golfers is that they don't know what to do Their friends family and maybe even well meaning Golf Professionals have given them a lot of advice tips They tell them that they are looking up bending their left arm rising up through the shot with their body not bending their knees enough swinging too fast coming over the top and host of other swing faults None of these have anything to do with why you're hitting the ball poorly and these are the same people that shoot the same scores you do What could they possibly tell you that would improve your game Many of the things thought to be fundamentals have nothing to do with improving your game For decades golfers have been learning the wrong things their games have not been improving Why is this happening For one there has been no consensus on the basic physics of the game such as what makes the ball go where it goes Plus there has been no universal language for golfers to communicate the moves they're making or the shots they're hitting Consequently they're forced to use vague clichés like I swung too fast or I looked up or other bits of handed down jargon or as Ben Hogan once said bromides that don't matter These impediments have made the barrier of entry into golf unnecessarily high Golfers routinely leave the game out of frustration lack of direction regression or improvement that comes too slowly or not at all
