Schulte-Droesch, 2018-09-10 Indian indigenous societies are especially known for their elaborate rituals which offer an excellent chance for studying religion as practice However few detailed ethnographic works exist on the ritual practices of these societies Based on long term ethnographic fieldwork in Jharkhand India this book offers insights into contemporary previously not described rituals of the Santal one of the largest indigenous societies of Central India Its focus lies on culturally specific notions of place as articulated and created during these rituals In three chapters the book discusses how the Santal make place on different local regional and global levels through their rituals They reaffirm their ancestral roots in their land during large sacrificial rituals They offer sacrifices to the dangerous deities of the forest in exchange for rain And they claim their region to be a Santal region through large festivals celebrated in sacred groves which they link to national and global discourses of indigeneity and environmentalism Through an analysis of the rituals of a specific society this book addresses broader issues It presents an example of how to study religion as a practical activity It portrays culture specific perceptions of the environment And last the book underlines the potential that lies in choosing place as a lens to study social phenomena in context

The Politics of the President's Wife MaryAnne Borrelli, 2011-08-15 As the West Wing has grown in power and organizational complexity during the modern presidency so has the East Wing office home to the First Lady of the United States This groundbreaking work by MaryAnne Borrelli offers both theoretical and substantive insight into behind the scenes developments from the time of Lou Henry Hoover to the unfolding tenure of Michelle Robinson Obama Political scientists and historians have recognized the personal influence the First Lady can exercise with her husband and they have noted the moral ethical and sometimes policy leadership certain presidents wives have offered Nonetheless scholars and commentators alike have treated the personal relationship and the professional relationship as overlapping Borrelli offers a compelling counter perspective that the president's wife exercises power intrinsic to her role within the administration Like others within the presidency she has sometimes presented the president's views to constituents and sometimes presented constituents views to the president thus taking on a representative function within the system In mediating president constituent relationships she has given a historical and social frame to the presidency that has enhanced its symbolic representation she has served as a gender role model enriching descriptive representation in the executive branch and she has participated in policy initiatives to strengthen an administration's substantive representation These contributions have been controversial as might be predicted for a gender outsider but they have unquestionably made the First Lady a representative of and to the president and by extension the president's administration

Interpretive Archaeology Julian Thomas, 2001-01-01 New forms of archaeology are emerging which position the discipline firmly within the social and cultural sciences These approaches have been described as post processual or interpretive archaeology and draw on a range of traditions of enquiry in the humanities from Marxism and critical theory to hermeneutics feminism queer theory phenomenology and post colonial thinking This volume gathers together a series of the canonical statements which have defined an interpretive archaeology Many of these have been unavailable for some while and others are drawn from inaccessible publications In addition a number of key articles are included which are drawn from other disciplines but which have been influential and widely cited within archaeology The collection is put into context by an editorial introduction and thematic notes for each section

Cross-Cultural Issues in Art Steven Leuthold, 2010-12-16 Cross Cultural Issues in Art provides an engaging introduction to aesthetic concepts expanding the discussion beyond the usual Western theorists and Western examples Steven Leuthold discusses both contemporary and historical issues and examples incorporating a range of detailed case studies from African Asian European Latin American Middle Eastern and Native American art Individual chapters address broad intercultural issues in art including Art and Culture Primitivism and Otherness Colonialism Nationalism Art and Religion Symbolism and Interpretation Style and Ethnicity A Sense of Place Art and Social Order Gender and the Self considering these themes as constructs that frame our understanding of art Cross Cultural Issues in Art draws upon ideas and case studies from cultural and critical studies art history ethno aesthetics and area studies visual anthropology and philosophy and will be useful for undergraduate and postgraduate courses in these fields
