,1897 Manx Fairy Tales Sophia Morrison,2024-11-24 Under the Irish Sea fifteen or sixteen miles south west of the Calf there is an enchanted isle Long long ago it was on the surface of the water that was in the days when Manannan ruled Mann but when Saint Patrick drove Manannan and his men from the island in the form of three legged creatures they came upon this isle Manannan dropped it to the bottom of the sea and they were seen no more Now it is home of Manannan Mac Lir Son of the Sea and he rules it as he used to rule Mann But once in seven years when Old May Day is on a Sunday the isle may be seen It rises up from the sea just before sunrise like a beautiful vision and Manannan looks once more at Ellan Vannin The hills of the enchanted isle are green white foam rings it round and if you are near enough you may see the tossing arms and golden hair of the Mermaids by the water s edge washing their glittering jewels and hear the singing birds and smell the fragrant scent of flowers But as the first rays of the sun rest upon its highest hills it sinks into the deep deep sea There is at least one spot in the world where Fairies are still believed in and where if you look in the right places they may still be found and that is the little island from which these stories come Ellan Vannin the Isle of Mann But I have used a word which should not be mentioned here they are never called Fairies by the Manx but Themselves or the Little People or the Little Fellows or the Little Ones or sometimes even the Lil Boys These Little People are not the tiny creatures with wings who flutter about in many English Fairy tales but they are small persons from two to three feet in height otherwise very like mortals Robert
