

The Fabled Red Dragon and the Earthquake Pavilion

THE Fabled Red Dragon and the Earthquake Pavilion

A very long time ago the people of a certain ancient town ¹ wanted to build a beautiful and imposing Confucian temple. In order to make it a temple and magnificent structure, one of them proposed that the main hall of the temple should be built lofty and wide with the main entrance made of a specially selected juba tree and that, in the case of the main temple, they should build a Spring and Autumn Pavilion with a roof made out of a single piece of stone. But where could they find such an enormous juba tree or a circular roof of sufficient size? That was the problem.

After considerable discussion they decided to send men out to search the surrounding countryside to seek out to buy the trees and the men they needed.

The men searched everywhere for three months, but all in vain. They couldn't even find a pine tree of that size, never mind a juba tree! And as for the circular roof, they couldn't even find a piece of granite that size.

Without either the great red trees or the circular roof for the roof they could not even begin, so those in charge of the construction were worried to death. They called several meetings and finally decided to put up wall-posters throughout the countryside offering a reward to anyone who could help them in their search.

This plan produced results, for, in less than a month after the posters were put up an old wood-cutter came forward and said, 'On the north peak behind the Western Mountains there
