Six Russian Men:

Russians in Alaska, 1732-1867 Lydia Black, 2004 This definitive work the crown jewel in the distinguished career of Russian America scholar Lydia T Black presents a comprehensive overview of the Russian presence in Alaska Drawing on extensive archival research and employing documents only recently made available to scholars Black shows how Russian expansion was the culmination of centuries of social and economic change Black s work challenges the standard perspective on the Russian period in Alaska as a time of unbridled exploitation of Native inhabitants and natural resources Without glossing over the harsher aspects of the period Black acknowledges the complexity of relations between Russians and Native peoples She chronicles the lives of ordinary men and women the merchants and naval officers laborers and clergy who established Russian outposts in Alaska These early colonists carried with them the Orthodox faith and the Russian language their legacy endures in architecture and place names from Baranof Island to the Pribilofs This deluxe volume features fold out maps and color illustrations of rare paintings and sketches from Russian American Japanese and European sources many have never before been published An invaluable source for historians and anthropologists this accessible volume brings to life a dynamic period in Russian and Alaskan history A tribute to Black s life as a scholar and educator Russians in Alaska will become a classic in the field The English Prisoners in Russia Alfred Royer, 1854 The Eastern Question Karl Marx, 1897 Destination Elsewhere Ruth Balint, 2021-11-15 In this unique history from below Destination Elsewhere chronicles encounters between displaced persons in Europe and the Allied agencies who were tasked with caring for them after the Second World War The struggle to define who was a displaced person and who was not was a subject of intense debate and deliberation among humanitarians international law experts immigration planners and governments What has not adequately been recognized is that displaced persons also actively participated in this emerging refugee conversation Displaced persons endured war displacement and resettlement but these experiences were not defined by passivity and speechlessness Instead they spoke back creating a dialogue that in turn helped shape the modern idea of the refugee As Ruth Balint shows what made a good or convincing story at the time tells us much about the circulation of ideas about the war the Holocaust and the Jews Those stories depict the emerging moral and legal distinction between economic migrants and political refugees They tell us about the experiences of women and children in the face of new psychological and political interventions into the family Stories from displaced persons also tell us something about the enduring myth of the new world for people who longed to leave the old Balint focuses on those persons whose storytelling skills became a major strategy for survival and escape out of the displaced persons camps and out of the Europe Their stories are brought to life in Destination Elsewhere alongside a new history of immigration statelessness and the institution of the postwar family Catalog of Copyright Entries. A History of Women in Psychology and Neuroscience Dale DeBakcsy, 2024-09-30. Since virtually its first moments as an academic science, women have played a major role in the development of psychology, gaining from the outset research opportunities and academic positions that had been denied them for centuries in other branches of scientific investigation. Look wherever you will in any branch of psychology or neuroscience in the last century and a half, and what you will find are a plethora of women whose discoveries fundamentally changed how we view the brain and its role in the formation of our perceptions and behaviors. A History of Women in Psychology and Neuroscience tells the story of 267 women whose work opened new doors in humanity's ongoing attempt to learn about its own nature, from Christine Ladd Franklin's late 19th-century studies of how the brain perceives color to Virginia Johnson's pioneering studies of the human sexual response and Augusta Dejerine Klumpke's early association of neurological conditions with their underlying brain regions to May Britt Moser's Nobel-winning discovery a century later of the grid cells that allow us to mentally model our surroundings. Here are the stories of when and how we learned how memories are formed, what role an enriched environment plays in mental development, why some individuals are better able to cope with chronic stress than others, how societal stereotypes unconsciously feed into our daily interactions with other people, what role evolution might have played in the formation of our social habits, what light the practices of sign language might shed on our brain's basic capacity for language, how children internalize the violence they experience from others, and hundreds of other tales of the women who dug deep into the structures of the human mind to uncover layer by layer the answers to millennia-old questions of what humans are and why they behave as they do.
