Stopping

Tuberculosis in Central Asia Joana Godinho, 2005 Annotation Tuberculosis is still a significant health and economic problem in Central Asia despite recent progress of the overall economic situation in the region Over 50 000 new cases were detected in 2003 and over 7 000 people died due to tuberculosis in Kazakhstan Kyrgyz Republic Tajikistan and Uzbekistan the four countries analyzed in this study Stopping Tuberculosis in Central Asia examines the control efforts and financing of tuberculosis programs in the region It also addresses the impending epidemiological crisis that has been posed by the sudden increase in cases of HIV AIDS infection combined with a prevalent epidemic of tuberculosis The authors find that it is highly unlikely that the Central Asian Republics will succeed in achieving the global targets for tuberculosis control in the short term unless decisive action is taken

Health Systems and the Challenge of Communicable Diseases: Experiences from Europe and Latin America Richard Coker, Rifat Atun, Martin McKee, 2008-05-16 This is an excellent book well written and well documented The editors have succeeded to bring together a large number of knowledgeable authors to cover comprehensively the vast area public health actors dealing with infectious diseases both at central and local level whether in research teaching or practice as well as professionals working in diagnostic and therapeutic health services notably in microbiology and infectious diseases could greatly benefit from reading the book Politicians and lay administrators with responsibility in the field would be well advised to do the same European Journal of Public Health Health systems everywhere face constant change as they seek to respond to evolving patterns of disease This is especially true with communicable diseases where humanity is engaged in a constant evolutionary struggle with micro organisms that are able to adapt rapidly to a changing world This problem can be for example exemplified recently by the growth of antibiotic resistant infection This fascinating book confronts this challenge looking at two regions where the pace of change is especially rapid Europe and Latin America places where health systems many themselves undergoing rapid organisational transition must find ways of adapting to an ever changing context The book begins with an historical overview recalling how humans and micro organisms have always competed at times with profound historical consequences before examining the current status of this evolutionary struggle It assesses the extent to which human societies and their governments are prepared for the challenges ahead and reviews the experiences of countries in Europe and Latin America in developing effective responses Health Systems and the Challenge of Communicable Diseases will be of interest to those engaged in the development of health policy in high and middle income countries and to those who are studying the creation and implementation of health policy

Public Health Aspects of HIV/AIDS in Low and Middle Income Countries David Celentano,Chris Beyrer,2008-09-11 It has now been 25 years since the apocryphal report in the CDC Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report dated June 5 1981 entitled Pneumocystis Pneumonia Los Angeles which announced what was to become HIV AIDS HIV has now affected virtually all countries that have looked for it and has had a devastating impact on the public health and medical care infrastructure around the world HIV AIDS has also disproportionately affected nations with the least capacity to confront it especially the developing world nations in Sub Saharan Africa South and Southeast Asia and the emerging republics of Eastern and Central Asia The pandemic unlike any other disease of our time has had profound impacts on the practice of public health itself bringing affected communities into decision making demanding North South partnerships and collaborations and changing the basic conduct of clinical and prevention trials research While much has been written in scholarly publications for medical epidemiologic and disease control specialists there is no comprehensive review of the public health impact and response to HIV AIDS in the developing world This edited volume seeks to systematically describe the emergence and form of the epidemics epidemiology the social community and political response and the various measures to confront and control the epidemic with varying levels of success Of particular importance are strategies that appear to have been useful in ameliorating the epidemic while contrasting the situation in a neighboring country or region where contrasting prevention or care initiatives have had a deleterious outcome Common to all responses has been the international multi sectoral response represented by the Global Fund for HIV AIDS Malaria and Tuberculosis the President s Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief and the Gates Foundation among others to promote HIV pharmacologic therapy in resource poor settings The chapter authors will explore the political challenges in meeting HIV AIDS prevention and care in concert with the public health realities in specific country and regional context Clinical Tuberculosis Peter Barnes,Peter D. O. Davies,Stephen B Gordon,2008-04-25 Over three previous editions Clinical Tuberculosis has established itself as an indispensable guide to all aspects of tuberculosis diagnosis and treatment This fully revised and updated fourth edition provides practical guidance to healthcare professionals involved in any aspect of patient management or disease control chapters are included on epidemiology pathology immunology disease presentation diagnosis treatment and management options The problem of TB associated with HIV infection is given special emphasis as are the increasing problems of multi drug resistant strains and environmentally opportunistic mycobacteria Chapter authors have been hand picked to represent the most up to date thinking in their particular subject areas making Clinical Tuberculosis the essential reference work for the bookshelves of respiratory physicians infectious disease specialists public health workers and other individuals involved in the management and control of tuberculosis worldwide The European Health Report 2009 ,2009 This report provides member states with essential public health information It provides a picture of the health status and health determinants in the European Region and identifies areas for public health action for the member states and the European public health community
