Imagining Futures Helen Stokes, 2012-08-01 Young people consider their future at a stage of life when the structure and relative certainty of school and further education are about to be left behind. This book provides an insight into how young people see themselves, the options they think are available to them, and the strategies they use to make their imagined futures possible. Ultimately, Imagining Futures is about identity. It draws on the real life stories and voices of a range of young people, many of whom are in their final years of secondary school or TAFE, to present an eye-opening portrait of who they are, who they aim to become, and how.

KATI'S STORY Catherine Veres, 2009-03-24 Based on a decade of taped conversations between Kati Catherine Veres and her son Peter Veres, KATI'S STORY: RECOLLECTIONS OF TWO WORLDS is the multigenerational story of a Jewish family. It takes us from mid-nineteenth century villages in Hungary during the Austro-Hungarian Empire to cosmopolitan Budapest before, during, and after World War II, and finally to post-war New York City. It is also the story of a culture that transformed from tolerant to virulently intolerant in a single generation. Kati's father served as an officer in the Hungarian army during WWI but was deported and killed during WWII. Sensing the coming disaster, Kati went to England to give birth to her first child, hoping that a British birth certificate would protect her against anti-Semitism. She returned to Budapest to be with her ailing parents, survived the war and its aftermath with her husband and two sons, and found a way to immigrate to New York to be near her brother Gabor Carelli, who became a principal soloist at the Metropolitan Opera Company. In her new world, she built on her sewing skills to become an assistant dress designer of high-end bridal gowns in the then-vigorous New York garment industry and later a pattern maker at Simplicity Patterns. Augmenting Kati's story is a large selection of family photographs and official documents, many in color, dating back to the mid-nineteenth century, which remarkably survived the war and emigration in excellent condition. Also included are several color maps indicating places mentioned in the text family trees and footnotes about historical and geographical details *The Children's World of Learning, 1480-1880. Chow, 2025-02-14 A ground breaking guide to thinking about how routine activities can be designed and innovated to develop narrative meaning and a sense of purpose Iteration is an integral part of daily routines such as sleep wake cycles commuting workouts chores or practising an instrument While many iterations just monotonously repeat others can lead to progression or evolution With subtle variations among iterations we can create meaning out of repetitive acts forging narratives from them and thus making them meaningful to us Chow draws on rhetoric psychology narratology and design thinking to show both in theory and in practice how we can innovate the design of mundane and routine activities to give them meaning and expression He does so by examining Asian and European originated examples across a range of domains including visual arts literature digital art video games and mobile applications A must read for designers and enthusiasts looking for ways to innovate across all domains and media and transform tedious repetitive activities into acts of intention
