Detroit Institute of the Arts William H. Peck, 1991-01-01 The Detroit Institute of Arts Detroit Institute of Arts, William H. Peck, 1991 The Detroit Institute of Art Detroit. Detroit Institute of Arts, 1991 A Museum on the Verge Jeffrey Abt, 2001 The Detroit Institute of Arts is one of America's largest and oldest municipal art museums. However, even as the museum grew into a distinguished collection, there were threats of closure. The DIA has walked a financial tightrope since it opened just over a century ago and was nearly closed by government funding cuts in the 1970s and 1990s. Now Jeffrey Abt tells how the DIA has had to struggle to maintain its fine art collection with barely enough income to remain open. A Museum on the Verge goes behind the scenes at the DIA to disclose the political, economic, and social forces that shaped the museum from its founding to the present day. Drawing on new archival research, Abt reveals that the growing discrepancy between the museum's size and its operating budget was the result of a century of ad hoc solutions to institutional problems that left the DIA vulnerable to annual income losses, especially reductions of government funding. He also explains its complex relations with private and government entities and delineates the integral role of the museum's support group, the Founders Society. Abt's account is supplemented by a wealth of material, including legal documents and numerical data taken at five-year intervals from the 1880s through 2000, that is presented in both tables and graphs. The data, which comprehensively survey vital statistics such as attendance, collections growth, and finances, provide a rich resource for comparative research on other museums. As a case study of a prominent public institution, A Museum on the Verge offers an invaluable research model for scholars and museum professionals alike. A brief history of the Detroit Museum of art and its collections Detroit Institute of Arts, 1902 Bulletin of the Detroit Institute of Arts Detroit Institute of Arts, 1928

Valuing Detroit's Art Museum Jeffrey Abt, 2017-03-27 This book explores the perilous situation that faced the Detroit Institute of Arts during the city's bankruptcy when creditors considered it a nonessential asset that might be sold to settle Detroit's debts. It presents the history of the museum in the context of the social, economic, and political development of Detroit, giving a history of the city as well as of the institution and providing a model of contextual institutional history. Abt describes how the Detroit Institute of Arts became the fifth largest art museum in America from its founding as a private non-profit corporation in 1885 to its transformation into a municipal department in 1919, through the subsequent decades of extraordinary collections and facilities growth coupled with the repeated setbacks of government funding cuts during economic downturns. Detroit's 2013 bankruptcy underscored the nearly 130 years of fiscal missteps and false assumptions that rendered the museum particularly vulnerable to the monetary power of a global art investment community eager to capitalize on the city's failures and its creditors' demands. This is a remarkable and important contribution to many fields, including non-profit management and economics, cultural policy, museum and urban history, and the histories of both the Detroit Institute of Arts and the city of Detroit itself. Despite the museum's unique history, its story offers valuable lessons for

Hodges,2018-04-16 A photographically rich biography of protean architect Albert Kahn Building the Modern World Albert Kahn in Detroit by Michael H Hodges tells the story of the German Jewish immigrant who rose from poverty to become one of the most influential architects of the twentieth century Kahn s buildings not only define downtown Detroit but his early car factories for Packard Motor and Ford revolutionized the course of industry and architecture alike Employing archival sources unavailable to previous biographers Building the Modern World follows Kahn from his apprenticeship at age thirteen with a prominent Detroit architecture firm to his death With material gleaned from two significant Kahn archives the University of Michigan s Bentley Historical Library and the Archives of American Art at the Smithsonian Institution Hodges paints the most complete picture yet of Kahn's remarkable rise. Special emphasis is devoted to his influence on architectural modernists, his relationship with Henry Ford, his intervention to save the Diego Rivera murals at the Detroit Institute of Arts, unreported until now, and his work laying down the industrial backbone for the Soviet Union in 1929-31 as consulting architect for the first Five Year Plan. Kahn's ascent from poverty, his outsized influence on both industry and architecture, and his proximity to epochal world events make his life story a tableau of America's rise to power. Historic photographs as well as striking contemporary shots of Kahn buildings enliven and inform the text. Anyone interested in architecture, architectural history, or the history of Detroit will relish this stunning work.

Sculpture Collections in Europe and the United States 1500-1930, 2021-04-26 Exploring the variety of forms taken by collections of sculpture, this volume presents new research by twelve internationally recognized scholars. The essays delve into the motivations of different collectors, the modes of display, and the aesthetics of viewing sculpture, bringing to light much new archival material. The book underscores the ambiguous nature of sculpture collections, variously understood as decorative components of interiors or gardens, as objects of desire in cabinets of curiosity, or as autonomous works of art in private and public collections. Emphasizing the collections and the ways in which these were viewed and described, this book addresses a significant but neglected aspect of art collecting and contributes to the literature on this branch of art and cultural history. This book evolved from a symposium, Sculpture Collecting and Display 1600-2000, organized by the Center for the History of Collecting, that was held at The Frick Collection on May 19 and 20, 2017. Both the book and the symposium were made possible through the generous support of the Robert H. Smith Family Foundation. The book is published in association with The Frick Collection.

Metropolitan Museum Studies in Art, Science, and Technology Silvia Centeno, Nora Kennedy, M. T. Wypyski, Marijn Manus, Deborah Schorsch, Richard E. Stone, Zhixin Sun, 2014-07-01 This second volume of Studies in Art, Science, and Technology unites studies by scientists, curators, and conservators, all of which are published here for the first time. Essays and technical notes address a variety of themes, such as connections between technology and aesthetics, aging processes of artworks, attribution and dating issues, and conservation theory. Specific examples from throughout art history add context and help promote deeper understanding. A wide range of objects are discussed in the texts, including medieval sculptures, Baroque musical instruments, Egyptian stone works, photographs, enamels, and paintings. The refined analyses of these works will prove relevant and enlightening to an interdisciplinary professional audience.
