collaboration can be created and sustained

Psychological Research John Haworth, 2006-04-14 Starting a research project however large or small can be a daunting prospect New researchers can be confronted with a huge number of options not only of topic but of conceptual underpinning It is quite possible to conduct research into say memory from a number of research traditions Psychology also has links with several other disciplines and it is possible to utilise their techniques the difficulty is quite simply the wide variety of methodological approaches that psychological research embraces

The Personal and the Professional in Aid Work Anne-Meike Fechter, 2016-03-16 This book considers how the personal and the professional dimensions are related and how they matter for aid work The contributions to this edited volume are based on the assumption that all actors are relevant in development including national and international aid workers A key question which the book explores is why the personal so often remains unacknowledged in development studies even though its salience for aid workers is well documented One possible reason is an implicit narrative of aid work as altruistic and self sacrificing which renders it inappropriate to devote much attention to the experiences of development professionals themselves In order to redress this this book critically considers the kind of difference they make and aims to understand how they respond to the challenges of their work The book explores their efficacy as human beings and employees with individual subjectivities social and cultural beliefs and practices and documents how these shape their involvement in development processes This book was published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly

Childhood Chris Jenks, 2005 Childhood is an extremely complex and highly contested concept It refers to a life phase as well as to the age group defined as children but is also a cultural construction part of the social and economic structure of communities The key scholarship collected introduced and reprinted in these volumes reflects this complexity and introduces the reader to the wide variety of interpretations that have been and continue to be placed on it It might be suggested that the push or initiative in theorizing childhood has derived from advances within sociology and anthropology However the future provides potential for interdisciplinary study which this collection also reflects The contemporary study of childhood must comprise a conjoining of disciplines sociology anthropology psychology social geography history philosophy and socio legal theory all have something to add to the field and are represented within the collection

Resisting Linguistic Imperialism in English Teaching A. Suresh Canagarajah, 1999-08-26 This book describes the creative strategies employed by teachers and students in periphery communities in order to use the English language in a manner that suits their needs while subtly resisting the linguistic imperialism that many scholars have identified as the consequence of the global ELT enterprise After developing trends and ideas from those oppositional strategies the book goes on to outline elements of a critical pedagogy suitable for ELT in formerly colonized communities As the English language continues to spread globally this book will be essential reading for English teachers and applied linguists wishing to understand the ideological challenges in the periphery Curriculum planners and policy makers will also find it a necessary aid to exploring the pedagogical alternatives Illegitimate Practices

Jacqueline Widin,2010-08-06 ELT education as a commodity takes many forms in countries all over the world This book questions how the benefits of international English language education projects are distributed The critical issues of language rights and linguistic diversity are pivotal in the book s examination of domination and subordination in international language education projects The author s description of the role and teaching of English is based on her experience of working in ELT aid and development and fee based projects and through it she unmasks the interests and intentions of aid and fee based language education projects The two case studies that form the basis of this book recount a version of ELT marketing and project implementation that will resonate with experiences of aid recipients and university led private sector fee payers in many different ELT contexts Pioneers Or Pawns? Marina de Regt,2007-10-22 Marina de Regt provides an invaluable analysis of gender health care training and globalization demonstrating women s positive impact on the complex workings of Yemeni health institutions Using the Hodeida Urban Primary Health Care Project as a case study the author looks at how development policies of the state interconnect with agendas of global donor organizations and the employment of women in the face of social disapproval and barriers to advancement Her highly accessible writing blends keen observations steeped in personal experience with a thorough grounding in theoretical literature Through interviews and the experience of working directly with the women she writes about De Regt gives voice to her subjects and offers an extraordinary portrait of the lives emotions and work of women dedicated to healing in a time of great political change This vitally important work challenges not only preconceived notions of the way in which health care is distributed in the Middle East but also questions the way women participate facilitate and resist the political change around them Cultural

Qualitative Analysis in the Making Daniella Kuzmanovic,Andreas Bandak,2014-10-10 How do scholars transform qualitative data into analysis What does making analysis imply What happens in the space in between data and finalized analysis is notoriously difficult to talk about In other parts of the research process scholars and students are aided by method books that describe the technicalities of generating processing and sorting through data handbooks that teach academic writing and scholarly works that offer meta level theoretical perspectives Yet the path from qualitative data to analysis remains a black box Qualitative Analysis in the Making ventures into this black box The volume provides a means of speaking about how analyses emerge in the Humanities Contributors from disciplines such as anthropology history and sociology of religion all employ an analytical double take They revisit one of their analyses analyzing how this particular analysis came into being Such analyses of an analysis are neither confessions nor step by step recounts of what happened Rather the volume argues that speaking of the space in between requires analytical displacement and the employment of fresh analytical takes This approach contributes to demystifying the path from qualitative data to finalized analysis It invites novel epistemological reflections among scholars and assists students in improving their analytical skills
