publisher Women, Soccer and Transnational Migration Sine Agergaard, Nina Clara Tiesler, 2014-08-21 Estimated participation figures of almost 30 million worldwide make soccer the most prominent team sport amongst girls and women. However, making a living as a female player is only deemed possible in approximately 20 out of around 150 FIFA listed women's soccer countries. This has led to a situation where highly skilled sports women have to migrate from their homelands to find employment with a professional team. Women Soccer and Transnational Migration represents a substantial contribution to our knowledge on the development of women's soccer to research into sports labor migration and sport and globalization more broadly. The book consists of three parts. Firstly, it provides an overview and an analysis of migration in women's soccer from its earliest forms until now. It then presents several case studies delivered by scholars from around the world illustrating how female players are increasingly being drawn to the USA, Northern Europe, and Scandinavia due to their ability to support professional leagues. Finally, all the themes and patterns of these case studies are drawn together to be able to compare and contrast migration in women's soccer to sport migration and globalization more broadly. This study not only makes recommendations for future researchers but may also serve as an important source of information for those in charge of policy. As such, it is essential reading for students, lecturers, researchers, and practitioners involved in sports migration and women's sport.

Football Traumatology Piero Volpi, 2006-01-19 Football is probably the most widespread sport in the world. Youngsters, adults, women, amateurs, beginners, professionals, all make up a legion of practitioners. Lesions associated with football are on the increase, and their typology has also changed over the years. Football, like many other sports, has undergone major changes: the increase in the intensity and speed of the game, the modern training methodologies, the technical and tactical innovations are all factors contributing to increased risks of traumatic injury. The footballers, the trainers, the sport's medical staff are asking for greater information and knowledge on the traumatic lesions associated with this sport. The primary role of those who are concerned with the health of footballers is to enforce preventive measures to reduce wherever possible the risks of trauma.
