Gastric Cancer Research Trends Marilyn B. Tompkins, 2007. Stomach cancer, also called gastric cancer, is the growth of cancer cells in the lining and wall of the stomach. Stomach cancer represents roughly 2 percent, 25,500 cases of all new cancer cases yearly in the United States, but it is much more common in Japan, Great Britain, South America and Iceland. It is associated with high salt in the diet, smoking and low intake of fruits and vegetables. Infection with H. pylori is the main risk factor in about 80 percent or more of gastric cancers. It is more common in men. A very small percentage of diffuse type gastric cancers are thought to be genetic. Hereditary Diffuse Gastric Cancer (HDGC) has only recently been identified and research is ongoing, but genetic testing and treatment options are available for families at risk. Metastasis occurs in 80-90 percent of individuals with stomach cancer, with a five-year survival rate of 75 percent in those diagnosed in early stages and less than 30 percent of those diagnosed in late stages. This book presents new and important research from around the world.
