Bureau of Engineering, 1926 Empirical Research on Environmental Policies in China Kiyoshi Fujikawa, 2024-01-08 This book presents an empirical study of the effects of environmental policies on China and its neighboring countries with a focus on waste and climate policies in China The two major carbon policies have to do with carbon markets and renewable energy The authors first examine the effectiveness of the Asian carbon market Because of the consumption of goods beyond provincial borders nationwide carbon markets are rather difficult to operate therefore a desirable initial allocation in the carbon market is proposed in this book As for renewable power its sources have not been fully utilized owing to a regional mismatch of supply and demand so optimal locations of renewable energy are shown The book also contains an analysis of the environmental and economic impacts of changes in resource circulation in East Asia Although motorization is advancing rapidly the vein industry for recycling used cars has not progressed The authors estimate the amount of materials from used cars including new energy vehicles electric and fuel cell vehicles and propose desirable policies for used vehicles East Asia is interdependent with respect to carbon and waste as well as the economy China has regulated the import of waste recently and has started recycling its own wastes putting pressure on neighboring countries to recycle their waste domestically The authors estimate the environmental and economic impacts of such policy changes Catalog of Technical Reports United States.
