Stories Teachers Tell:

Stories Teachers Tell Douglas K. Hartman, 1998 Teachers Learning to Teach Candace Louise Clark, 1992 This qualitative study explored the stories two teachers told about why they taught as they did Each teacher was interviewed and observed to inform the question of how teachers beliefs knowledge and experience influence their actions or practice Two scholarly paths teacher thinking and learning to teach were used as guide posts for constructing a framework to analyze the beliefs knowledge and experience evidenced in the teachers interviews and observations The analyses revealed three categories of sources for beliefs The first were those sources for beliefs emerging from personal experiences The second type were those sources for beliefs originating from pre and inservice education The third type were those sources for beliefs emerging from experiences associated with the context in which they taught The breadth and depth of beliefs were revealed and verified by the observations The findings suggest that there is a strong connection between beliefs and practice Teachers hold beliefs which guide their practice Teachers tie what they do in their classrooms to beliefs they hold about teaching and learning Furthermore this study suggests that there are three levels of influence of beliefs on practice fundamental curricular and formative Fundamental beliefs dominate curriculum decisions and serve as the theoretical center from which the other beliefs stem At a second level curricular beliefs guided by the fundamental belief are more stable in practice than other beliefs Formative beliefs are less stable in practice The curricular and formative beliefs are linked to the fundamental guiding principle by the breadth and depth of its influence The study foregrounds a very different view of why teachers teach the way they do when beliefs and practice are explored in depth and from a practitioner s perspective Telling Stories in Book Clubs Mary Kooy, 2006-08-15 Mary Kooy s Telling Stories in Book Clubs gives us a compelling provocative and insightful picture of teachers reading talking and learning together By weaving together the responses of the novice teachers book club the experienced teachers book club and her own thoughtful analyses Kooy has documented what teacher learning looks like from the inside This book is a must read for all those interested in professional development across the lifespan Marilyn Cochran Smith Boston College Kooy s narrative about book clubs as learning communities makes a significant contribution to both research and practice Tying together reading teaching and learning the book gives us a superb example of how to nurture the intellectual and relational needs for continuous teacher growth and development The book is a must for teachers researchers and policymakers Ann Lieberman emeritus professor from Teachers College Columbia University and Senior Scholar at the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching Mary Kooy is a gifted writer and teacher She takes the obvious truth that we read books with other people and turns it into a compelling work of professional development We see the communities emerge and coalesce We see the self reflective questioning that is at the heart of all good teaching take shape through interaction and nurturing From the Foreword by Jo Anne Pagano Colgate University Stories Teachers Tell Kathleen Diane Whalin, Rudine Sims Bishop, 1991 Telling Teacher Stories Barry Arbretton, 1994 The

Storyteller's Guide William Mooney, 1996 Guide to becoming a better storyteller with advice from more than fifty of America's best known storytellers who answer questions about such issues as creating original stories controlling stage fright marketing and setting fees and using storytelling in the library and classroom

Language Teachers' Stories from their Professional Knowledge Landscapes Lesley Harbon, Robyn Moloney, 2017-06-23 Language Teachers Professional Knowledge Landscapes is a collection of fourteen narratives from teachers of different languages at different school levels in different contexts across Australia This volume brings together not simply language teacher stories but also more political stories of the problems associated with school programs and contexts Highlighted through these stories are some of the major political issues in schools that impact language teachers work and their students success in sustained language study The book is conceptually framed by the work of Clandinin and Connelly 1996 and their notion of levels of stories told by teachers about their classrooms the secret the sacred and the cover stories The term professional knowledge landscape is used to indicate how teachers can critically situate their work and thereby understand it better The collection includes the stories of two outstanding primary language educators and a story of mixed success in a rural program in teaching the local Aboriginal language Ngarrabul There are stories of frustration with policy failures particularly in supporting the learning of Asian languages Many of the teacher narrators ask the confronting question What blocks language learning in Australia They offer the strategies which they have developed that they see making a difference Other narratives offer autoethnographic tracking of careers for example as a teacher of Latin and Classics Japanese French Spanish Russian and of teachers ongoing vigour and creativity in advocacy A number of teachers examine their own identity story for the intercultural learning which they then offer and extend in student learning Consistently expressed there is the need for teachers to take up individual responsibility while still being strongly supported by their professional community It is us who make the difference one teacher concludes Supported by a strong Foreword by Canadian scholar F Michael Connelly this ground breaking collection of narratives represents a form of social research in providing critical illustrations of the issues needing attention for national language education enhancement It is the only extended inquiry into language teaching in the context of an active policy initiative environment and the first volume to address the language education landscape through the voices of active language teachers

Children Tell Stories Martha Hamilton, Mitch Weiss, 2005 Presents concrete methods of incorporating storytelling by students of all ages into classroom practice to help teachers meet U S education standards of reading writing speaking listening viewing and visually representing Provided by publisher

Teacher's Stories, Teacher's Lives Carola Conle, 2006 In this book we demonstrate a mode of teacher education that is practical in a non technical sense and relies on Dewey's notion of curriculum as the reconstruction of experience We present a curriculum that emerged through collaborative self reflection and seeks to reconstruct personal histories of schooling As four former preservice teachers and their instructor we engaged in jointly constructed autobiographical inquiry in order to generate data on our own past and on our current histories of teaching and learning We wanted to illuminate parts of our lives in schools that until now belonged to our normal and taken for granted past We did this in order to enjoy certain degrees of awareness and choice as to which of our living stories to reinforce and which to let run out in our classrooms today Normal Instructor and Teachers World,1928

The Stories Children Tell Susan Engel,1995-01-15 Whether presenting their versions of real events or making up tales of adventure and discovery children enchant us with their stories But the value of those stories goes beyond their charm Storytelling is an essential form through which children interpret their own experiences and communicate their view of the world Each narrative presented by a child is a brushstroke on an evolving self portrait a self portrait the child can reflect on refer to and revise In The Stories Children Tell developmental psychologist Susan Engel examines the methods and meanings of children s narratives She offers a fascinating look at one of the most exciting areas in modern psychology and education What is really going on when a child tells or writes a story Engel s insights into this provocative question are drawn from the latest research findings and dozens of actual children s tales compelling funny sometimes disturbing stories often of unexpected richness and beauty In The Stories Children Tell Susan Engel examines the different functions of storytelling the way the storytelling process changes as children develop the contributions of parents and peers to storytelling the different types of stories children tell the development of a child s narrative voice the best way of nurturing a child s storytelling skills Throughout these discussions Engel presents compelling evidence for what is perhaps her most intriguing idea that in constructing stories children are constructing themselves Teacher as Curator Lisa Donovan,Sarah Anderberg,2020 Increasingly across the country school district and postsecondary educators are exploring new avenues for incorporating the visual and performing arts into the core curriculum through interdisciplinary learning called arts integration Arts Integration is a pedagogy whereby students engage in learning subject matter in and through the arts The Kennedy Center in Washington D C a nationally recognized leader for professional artists and arts education defines arts integration as an approach to teaching in which students construct and demonstrate understanding through an art form Teachers engaged in an arts integrated pedagogy may design lessons through which students act out the lifecycle of a butterfly dance the structure of DNA illustrate main ideas in storybooks or rap mathematical formulas and concepts

Potential Development Using Thinking Tools Cas Olivier,2019-09-12 Educators need to empower learners to be prepared for the Fourth Industrial Revolution to be thinkers with the ability to pioneer the future This book cracks teaching and learning myths that led to learners being perceived as knowledge duplicators instead of being knowledge creators Thinking tools move the focus of learning from mastering content to critical thinking This requires the critical thinking toolkit which is the mothership of all thinking It engages learners forever wandering minds with the learning task at hand which is the substitute for the traditional expectations of paying attention and memorising When employing thinking tools learners become thinking engineers taking ownership of what they must discover create or solve Within this paradigm of teaching teachers directly engage with learners brains which goes beyond learner centred teaching and defining learning as visual auditory or kinaesthetic The book is based on examples of thinking tools sessions Postgraduate Programmes as Platform,2007-01-01 Typical of postgraduate courses for experienced teachers is the wealth of professional experience that the students bring with them Such students can examine their own practice for which they are fully responsible Postgraduate programmes are therefore challenged to create a flexible and research led infrastructure that can respond to developments in the educational field and relate these developments to educational philosophical conceptual and moral issues Through the creation of a platform for such activities the professional development of postgraduate students can be enriched Authors from diverse backgrounds address important aspects of the platform such as the relation between tutors and students teachers professional identity the voice of pupils the characteristics of teachers workplace of the participating professionals the relationship between action research and teacher leadership This book offers inspiring and thought provoking ideas to all involved in postgraduate programmes in teacher education teacher educators policy makers researchers administrators and schools collaborating with staff of postgraduate courses and their students The book is an initiative of the Research Group Interactive Professionalism and Knowledge Development at Fontys University of Applied Sciences Department of Inclusive and Special Education The Netherlands Beyond Classical Pedagogy Terry Wood,Barbara Scott Nelson,Janet E. Warfield,2014-04-04 The emergence of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics Standards in 1989 sparked a sea change in thinking about the nature and quality of mathematics instruction in U S schools Much is known about transmission forms of mathematics teaching and the influence of this teaching on students learning but there is still little knowledge about the alternative forms of instruction that have evolved from the recent widespread efforts to reform mathematics education Beyond Classical Pedagogy Teaching Elementary School Mathematics reports on the current state of knowledge about these new instructional practices which differ in significant ways from the traditional pedagogy that has permeated mathematics education in the past This book provides a research based view of the nature of facilitative teaching in its relatively mature form along with opposing views and critique of this form of pedagogy The focus is on elementary school mathematics classrooms where the majority of the reform based efforts have occurred and on the micro level of teaching classroom interaction as a source for revealing the complexity involved in teaching teachers learning and the impact of both on children s learning The work in elementary mathematics teaching is situated in the larger context of research on teaching Research and insights from three disciplinary perspectives are presented the psychological perspective centers on facilitative teaching as a process of teachers learning the mathematical perspective focuses on the nature of the mathematical knowledge teachers need in order to engage in this form of teaching the sociological perspective attends to the interactive process of meaning construction as teachers and students create intellectual communities in their classrooms The multidisciplinary perspectives presented provide the editors with the necessary triangulation to provide confirming evidence and rich detail about the nature of facilitative teaching Audiences for this book include scholars in mathematics education and teacher education teacher educators staff developers and classroom teachers It is also appropriate as a text for graduate courses in mathematics education teacher education elementary mathematics teaching methods and methods of research in mathematics education Chapter 5 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Understanding Expertise in Teaching Amy Tsui, 2003-04-07 Table of contents Beginning Teaching Sandy Schuck, Peter Aubusson, John Buchanan, Tom Russell, 2012-03-01 The experiences of the first years of new teachers professional lives are critical to their decisions about embracing or leaving the teaching profession Write large these experiences have the potential to either underpin or undermine the growth and development of the teaching profession This book offers a research based account of beginning teachers experiences told from their own perspectives and often in their own words Beginning Teaching Stories from the Classroom provides valuable source material to inform teacher education practices The authors draw on more than 20 years of research on the professional learning retention and attrition of beginning teachers to provide evocative illustrations of the challenges and successes that occur in the early years of teaching The compelling and coherent narratives will appeal not only to student and graduate teachers but also to program designers coaches and senior managers in schools Above all the book speaks to teacher educators in the hope that the experiences discussed here will suggest ways of supporting student teachers to grow and flourish once they launch their careers in the profession These evocative stories express beginning teachers anguish and elation and also provide testimony to their resilience and perseverance in an altruistic profession The analysis and interpretation of their stories will challenge and uplift inspire and shame give cause for celebration and melancholy generate empathy and provoke introspection Above all else these stories call for change Autoethnographic Perspectives on Multilingual Life Stories Hancı-Azizoglu, Eda Başak, Şahinkarakaş, Şehnaz, Tannacito, Dan J., 2022-05-13 Storytelling is an ideal avenue for language learners to share their experiences and journeys and find a sense of identity Everyone who has learned an additional language has a story to tell but there is a unique type of autoethnographic and linguistic story that can be read in scholarly platforms Autoethnographic Perspectives on Multilingual Life Stories presents the life stories of multilingual people and their experiences by using autoethnography as a research method It proposes narrative as an autobiographical research method that provides the technique and opportunity to express how transnationals construct their identities in foreign and new contexts through partial or full life stories Covering topics such as identity life stories and self discovery this reference work is ideal for academicians researchers scholars practitioners instructors and students Differentiating Instruction for Students With Learning Disabilities William N. Bender, 2008 Written for teachers who want to know how to differentiate instruction for students with learning difficulties the second edition of Differentiating Instruction for Students with Learning Disabilities
