Fathom, 1992 Report on the Lands of the Arid Region of the United States John Wesley Powell, Willis

Drummond, Clarence E. Dutton, Grove Karl Gilbert, A. H. Thompson, 2023-07-10 The Report on the Lands of the Arid Region of the United States brings together a crucial collection of scientific and exploratory essays that delve into the transformative landscape of America's dry regions during the late 19th century. This anthology explores themes of water scarcity, environmental transformation, and the socio-economic implications of managing arid lands. The diversity of essays underscores a blend of cartography, geology, and pioneering land reform ideas, seamlessly weaving scientific rigour with visionary land policy discussions. These pieces collectively highlight crucial debates and observations pertaining to the development and sustainability of arid regions, with a standout focus on water resource management and its critical importance. Within this collection, remarkable scholars such as John Wesley Powell and Willis Drummond contribute their roles as prominent figures in advancing land reform and conservation ideologies. These authors, alongside pioneers like Clarence E. Dutton, Grove Karl Gilbert, and A. H. Thompson, offer a multifaceted view rooted in the scientific inquiry and explorative zeal characteristic of the era. Their collective insight represents a shifting American perspective influenced by westward expansion and resource management, aligning with historical movements advocating for more sustainable and scientifically informed policies. This anthology is a vital resource for anyone interested in understanding the varied and historical perspectives on land and water management. Readers are invited to explore a vast array of insights that not only trace the scientific and cultural advancements of the time but also foster a deeper dialogue on our current environmental challenges. As a compendium of diverse voices, it offers a rich educational journey through America's ecological and developmental narrative.

The Primeval Flood Catastrophe Y. S. Chen, 2013-10 Previous research on Mesopotamian Flood traditions tended to focus on a few textual sources. How the traditions originated and developed as a whole has not been seriously investigated. By systematically examining a large body of relevant cuneiform sources of diverse genres from the Early Dynastic III period (ca. 2600-2350 B.C.) to the end of the first millennium B.C., this book observes that it is during the Old Babylonian period (ca. 2000-1600) and classical attestations of the Flood traditions are found. On linguistic, conceptual, and literary-historical grounds, the book argues that the Flood traditions emerged relatively late in Sumerian traditions. It traces different evolutionary stages of the Flood traditions from the emergence of the Flood motif within the socio-political and cultural contexts of the early Isin dynasty (ca. 2017-1896 B.C.) to the diverse mythological representations of the motif in literary traditions, to the historicisation of the motif in chronography, and finally to the interactions between various strands of the Flood traditions and other Mesopotamian literary traditions, such as Sumerian and Babylonian compositions about Gilgamesh. By uncovering the processes through which the Flood traditions were constructed, the book offers a valuable case study on the complex and dynamic relationship between myth making the development of literature the rise of historical consciousness and historiography and socio political circumstances in the ancient world The origins and development of the Flood traditions examined in the book furthermore represent one of the best documented examples illustrating the continuities and changes in Mesopotamian intellectual linguistic literary socio political and religious history over the course of two and a half millennia Lectures on Diseases of the Nervous System.
