Incubation and Acceleration Sarfraz A. Mian, Magnus Klofsten, Wadid Lamine, 2021-03-26 This pioneering work explores both the theory and practice of business and technology incubation over the past six decades as an approach to new venture creation and development. The book outlines the NIS approach, analyses the building up of the Chinese NIS, and discusses the role/orientation of university in the NIS. It also discusses three institutional innovations: the Chinese version Bayh-Dole Act, university technology transfer offices, and university incubators, in order to show how universities transfer technology to industry in the Chinese NIS. Additionally, it makes a cross-national comparison of university incubators in China and in France. The book underlines the importance of university in improving weak absorptive and innovative capabilities of domestic firms and provides both practical and theoretical insights to policy makers and practitioners. The book will be a very valuable reference to university students and lecturers, as well as to governments and firms who are interested in university technology transfer and the Chinese NIS. Remaking the American Dream Vinit Mukhija, 2022-12-20 The redefinition of the single-family house, the urban landscape, and the American Dream. Sitting squarely at the center of the American Dream, the detached single-family home has long been the basic building block of most US cities. In Remaking the American Dream, Vinit Mukhija considers how this is changing in both the American psyche and the urban landscape. In defiance of long-held norms and standards, single-family housing is slowly but significantly transforming through incremental additions of second and third units. Drawing on empirical evidence of informal and formal changes, Remaking the American Dream documents homeowners' quiet, unpermitted modifications, conversions, and workarounds, as well as gradual institutional alterations to once-rigid local land-use regulations. Mukhija's primary case study is Los Angeles, and the role played by the State of California. Findings he contrasts with the experience of other cities, including Santa Cruz, Seattle, Portland, Minneapolis, and Vancouver. In each instance, he shows how and asks why homeowners are adapting their homes, and governments are changing the rules that regulate single-family housing to allow for accessory dwelling units (ADUs) or second units. Key to Mukhija's research is the question of why the idea of single-family living is changing and what this means for the future of US cities. The answer this book suggests heralds nothing less than a redefinition of American urbanism and the American Dream. Reports of Cases in Law and Equity, Argued and Determined in the Supreme Court of the State of Georgia Georgia.
