The Diary Of A Breast:

The Diary of a Breast Elisa Segrave,1995 During nine months of treatment following the discovery of a lump in her breast the writer Elisa Segrave kept a diary on which she based this book It records her successful fight against cancer and evokes her disintegrating family her eccentric literary friends and long suffering NHS patients The Motherhood Diaries

ReShonda Tate Billingsley,2013-04-09 Billingsley openly shares stories about her children twelve year old Mya the diva who searched the internet for the president of Justice department store then called his personal line to tell him why would be crazy not to let her model for him to ten year old Morgan who has a serious case of middle child syndrome and a knack for falling asleep in the strangest places the pantry the dryer the attic and finally five year old Myles who as his grandmother says has been here before Disjointed Perspectives on Motherhood Catalina Florina Florescu,2013-10-29 Disjointed Perspectives on Motherhood presents the accounts of mothers who have suffered a major physical and or psychically traumatic accident and as a consequence their minds and bodies have been drastically changed They live under the pressure of having discovered the alter ego of their traumatized personality and now distressed cannot embrace their unconditional maternal love Instead they enter into a phase where they face the challenge of revealing who they are as persons before accepting or motivating themselves as mothers The mothers presented in this volume also seem to have another thing in common their transnational fluid female identity as they enter into an imaginary dialog that transcends geographical and temporal perspectives on womanhood and motherhood This collection introduces and analyzes recurrent words that define a woman s body and mind today fear competition motherhood and career rights selfishness ambition destruction distance and identity By using unprecedented comparative critical approaches such as phenomenological medical feminist and re enchantinent theories and by analyzing works from literature cinema and visual arts this collection attempts to reestablish and redefine a canonical concept with the intention to revitalize an otherwise taken for granted image and role The

The Idea of Infancy in Nineteenth-Century British Poetry D.B. Ruderman, 2016-04-28 This book radically refigures the conceptual and formal significance of childhood in nineteenth century English poetry By theorizing infancy as a poetics as well as a space of continual beginning Ruderman shows how it allowed poets access to inchoate uncanny and mutable forms of subjectivity and art While recent historicist studies have documented the freshness of experience childhood confers on 19th century poetry and culture this book draws on new formalist and psychoanalytic perspectives to rethink familiar concepts such as immortality the sublime and the death drive as well as forms and genres such as the pastoral the ode and the ballad Ruderman establishes that infancy emerges as a unique structure of feeling simultaneously with new theories of lyric poetry at the end of the eighteenth century He then explores the intertwining of poetic experimentation and infancy in Wordsworth Anna Barbauld Blake Coleridge Erasmus Darwin Sara Coleridge Shelley Matthew Arnold Tennyson and Augusta Webster Each chapter addresses and analyzes a specific moment in a writers work moments of tenderness or mourning birth or death physical or mental illness when infancy is analogized eulogized or theorized Moving between canonical and archival materials and combining textual and inter textual reading metrical and prosodic analysis and post Freudian psychoanalytic theory the book shows how poetic engagements with infancy anticipate psychoanalytic and phenomenological i e modern ways of being in the world Ultimately Ruderman suggests that it is not so much that we return to infancy as that infancy returns obsessively compulsively in us This book shows how by tracking changing attitudes towards the idea of infancy one might also map the emotional political and aesthetic terrain of nineteenth century culture It will be of interest to scholars in the areas of British romanticism and Victorianism as well as 19th century American literature and culture histories of childhood and representations of the child from art historical cultural studies and literary perspectives D B Ruderman s The Idea of Infancy in Nineteenth Century British Poetry Romanticism Subjectivity Form is an interesting contribution to this field and it manages to bring a new perspective to our understanding of Romantic era and Victorian representations of infancy and childhood a supremely exciting book that will be a key work for generations of readers of nineteenth century poetry Isobel Armstrong Birkbeck University of London Victorian Studies 59 4

Breast Cancer Anna M. Maslin, Trevor J. Powles, 1999 Of all cancers probably breast cancer is one of the most emotive Increasingly patients with breast cancer are participating in the surgical and or medical decision about their treatment This involvement raises ethical issues about the rights of patients and their ability to give an informed consent concerns about the process of communication between the medical staff and the patient and also issues about the psychology of not only the woman with breast cancer but also the doctor This book addresses these issues relating to shared decision making and in particular those areas where a choice of treatment option involves some degree of risk benefit analysis It covers the ethical principles and then looks at the evidence that women who wish to participate and who are fully informed and who have taken part in the decision making process regarding their treatment and who have a positive attitude towards their illness tend to do better in the long run Appropriate experts have contributed sections on the different treatment options to provide a brief overview of the treatments available and highlight the issues that should be considered by the woman and the doctor in the decision making process There is also a section on the patients perspective and vignettes throughout to illustrate dilemmas the patient faces and the importance of communication Written for the surgical medical and clinical oncologists who deal with breast cancer patients and senior nurses in breast cancer units this book will also be of interest to trainees practising oncologists and the women themselves who are interested in the shared decision making process in oncology generally
