Masculinities and the Adult Male Prison Experience Jennifer Anne Sloan, 2016-05-18 This book critically analyses how men in prison act out their masculine identities It considers how men negotiate their time in prison which can involve being placed into a feminine position relative to other men and particularly looks at the subversion of heteronormative gender positionings through bodies spaces time and relationships Vulnerability is also taken as a key consideration and men are shown to act out their masculinities for the benefit of an audience that matters to them However that audience is shown to be subject to change at any point in time Using extensive ethnographic data

drawn from adult male prisoners the book adopts the viewpoint of the individual prisoner as a frame to consider masculinity It also advances ethnographic research in criminology by reflecting upon the identity of researchers in prisons particularly the female researcher's gendered identity in such environments It will be of great interest to scholars of penology gender and ethnography

Four Thousand Weeks Oliver Burkeman, 2021-08-10 AN INSTANT NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER Provocative and appealing well worth your extremely limited time Barbara Spindel The Wall Street Journal The average human lifespan is absurdly insultingly brief Assuming you live to be eighty you have just over four thousand weeks Nobody needs telling there isn't enough time We're obsessed with our lengthening to-do lists our overfilled inboxes work-life balance and the ceaseless battle against distraction and we're deluged with advice on becoming more productive and efficient and life hacks to optimize our days But such techniques often end up making things worse The sense of anxious hurry grows more intense and still the most meaningful parts of life seem to lie just beyond the horizon Still we rarely make the connection between our daily struggles with time and the ultimate time management problem the challenge of how best to use our four thousand weeks Drawing on the insights of both ancient and contemporary philosophers psychologists and spiritual teachers Oliver Burkeman delivers an entertaining humorous practical and ultimately profound guide to time and time management Rejecting the futile modern fixation on getting everything done Four Thousand Weeks introduces readers to tools for constructing a meaningful life by embracing finitude showing how many of the unhelpful ways we've come to think about time aren't inescapable unchanging truths but choices we've made as individuals and as a society and that we could do things differently

Domestic Architecture and the Use of Space Susan Kent, 1993-06-25 Domestic Architecture and the Use of Space investigates the relationship between the built environment and the organisation of space The contributors are classical and prehistoric archaeologists anthropologists and architects who from their different backgrounds are able to provide some important and original insights into this relationship

In the Meantime Sarah Sharma, 2014-02-07 The world is getting faster This sentiment is proclaimed so often that it is taken for granted rarely questioned or examined by those who celebrate the notion of an accelerated culture or by those who decry it Sarah Sharma engages with that assumption in this sophisticated critical inquiry into the temporalities of everyday life Sharma conducted ethnographic research among individuals whose jobs or avocations involve a persistent focus on time taxi drivers frequent flyer business travelers corporate yoga instructors devotees of the slow food and slow living movements Based on that research she develops the concept of power chronography to make visible the entangled and uneven politics of temporality Focusing on how people's different relationships to labor configure their experience of time she argues that both speed up and slow down often function as a form of biopolitical social control necessary to contemporary global capitalism

Improvised Dance Nalina Wait, 2023-04-14 This book elucidates the technical aspects of improvised dance performance and reframes the notion of labour in the practice from one that is either based on compositionally formal logic or a mysterious impulse to one that addresses the in corporeal dimensions of practice Mobilising the languages and conceptual frameworks of theories of affect embodied cognition somatics and dance this book illustrates the work of specialist improvisers who occupy divergent positions within the complex field of improvised dance It offers an alternative narrative of the history and current practice of Western improvised dance centred on the epistemology of its in corporeal knowledges which are elusive yet vital to the refinement of expertise Written for both a disciplinary specific and interdisciplinary audience this book will interest dance scholars students and practising artists
