Relatively Speaking Alan Ayckbourn, 1968. The play opens in the flat of Greg and Ginny, a young cohabiting couple. Ginny being the more sexually experienced, Greg finds a strange pair of slippers under the bed and is too besotted to believe they might have been left by another man, which would also explain the bunches of flowers and boxes of sweets filling Ginny's apartment. Ginny goes off for a day in the country supposedly to visit her parents but actually to break things off with her older married lover Philip. Greg decides to follow her. The next scene is on the patio at the home of Philip and his befuddled wife Sheila, whose marriage is clearly under strain. Greg shows up unannounced before Ginny and wrongly assumes that they are her parents. Greg asks for her hand from Philip while Philip mistakenly believes that the strange young man is asking permission to marry Sheila. Once Ginny arrives, she convinces Philip to play the role of her father. Meanwhile, Greg still believes that Sheila is Ginny's mother. The situation becomes increasingly complicated and hilarious. Round and Round the Garden Alan Ayckbourn, 2011-01-10. Sarah's desperate attempts to have a nice civilized week end culminate not surprisingly in disaster. Ruth Norman's wife is summoned but Norman still contrives to cause havoc involving finally all three women. Matters are not helped by such events as the slow thinking Tom mistaking Ruth's intentions during a conversation they have together. Eventually the horrific week end draws to a close. The four visitors depart but even at the last moment Norman manages deliberately or not to wreck all plans by driving his car into Reg's. Back they all troop now facing having to stay. Norman finds himself spurned by all three women and is left protesting with injured innocence that he only meant to make everyone happy.
