Global Experience Industries Jens Christensen, 2009-08-30 The experience economy is a fourth economic field different from commodities goods and services Experiences are an economic value added to a product or identical with the product When you buy an experience you pay to spend time enjoying a series of memorable events that a company stages to engage the customer in a personal way The experience dimension has moved into a predominant place since the 1990s fueled by an expanding global and digital economy In developed countries people get richer and more individualized and having met all basic material needs they focus increasingly on personal development and self realization Demand for experience based products increases such as tourism and sports as well as film music and other contents of media and interactive technologies Furthermore the demand for experience values is extended to include any product and dimension of modern societies such as the design of houses furniture clothes cars computers etc This is not a completely new story Commercial entertainment and design has been around for a century or so And in addition universal values of love sex belief family and the meaning of life have always been vital to human beings What is new is the fact that capitalism is invading more and more fields of experiences connected with emotions and the extension of life proportions In all developed countries and increasingly on a global scale a series of expanding industries have emerged to supply the market with experience oriented goods In this book the business development of markets and industries is covered from tourism to media and entertainment and from design to sex including leading companies and trends in all industries involved

Abolitions as a Global Experience Hideaki Suzuki, 2015-11-16 The abolition of slavery and similar institutions of servitude was an important global experience of the nineteenth century Considering how tightly bonded into each local society and economy were these institutions why and how did people decide to abolish them This collection of essays examines the ways this globally shared experience appeared and developed Chapters cover a variety of different settings from West Africa to East Asia the Indian Ocean and the Caribbean with close consideration of the British French and Dutch colonial contexts as well as internal developments in Russia and Japan What part of the abolition decision was due to international pressure and what part due to local factors Furthermore this collection does not solely focus on the moment of formal abolition but looks hard at the aftermath of abolition and also at the ways abolition was commemorated and remembered in later years This book complicates the conventional story that global abolition was essentially a British moralizing effort among the three or four perfectly virtuous pages comprised in the history of nations Using comparison and connection this book tells a story of dynamic encounters between local and global contexts of which the local efforts of British abolition campaigns were a part Looking at abolitions as a globally shared experience provides an important perspective not only to the field of slavery and abolition studies but also the field of global or world history The Take-Action Guide to World Class Learners Book 3 Yong Zhao,Homa Tavangar,Emily McCarren,Gabriel F. A well worn first edition of this book sits next to my office desk and I consult it often. There is no better collection of everyday issues examined from a Christian perspective. A wide variety of topics are addressed with a cleverly balanced combination of academic and practical perspectives informed by thoughtful biblical and theological reflection. This is a wonderfully useful tool. I am pleased that it will be available to resource a new generation of Christians who are eager to understand more about what it means to follow Christ in every aspect of life. Alistair Mackenzie, Senior Lecturer, School of Theology, Mission and Ministry, Laidlaw College, Christchurch, New Zealand. Also Director of Faith at Work NZ.

It includes twenty five essays by highly regarded artisans, academics, technologists, entrepreneurs, businesspeople, curators and researchers from many countries representing a wide range of global craft traditions and innovations. They write about teaching and research informing their practice and they explain the importance of their tools and materials in function and form of the objects they make. The essays reveal a poignant expression of their successes, disappointments and opportunities. This book offers case studies of how artisans have harnessed the traditions of the past alongside the latest design technologies. The authors reveal how global craft is not only a vehicle for self expression and creativity but also for being deeply relevant to the world of work, community and environmental sustainability.
