The Glebe Portraits And Places:

The Glebe Freda MacDonnell,1975 London's Women Artists, 1900-1914 Mengting Yu,2020-09-16 Drawing on untapped archives as well as aggregating a wide range of existing published sources this book recalibrates the understanding of women artists roles outputs and receptions in London during what was indubitably a vibrant and innovative period in the history of British art and in which the work of their male contemporaries is so well understood The book takes its starting point from Alicia Foster s article Gwen John s Self Portrait Art Identity and Women Students at the Slade School published in 2000 where the expression a talented and decorative group was coined to describe common attitudes towards women artists in the late 19th and early 20th century London This pejorative attribution strongly implied a status less significant to that of their male counterparts The author challenges this statement s basic tenet by casting a wide net in examining women s art education from the Slade School of Fine Art through to the role of its graduates within a selection of London s exhibition groups societies and publications This book also reconstructs from scratch the role of the Women s International Art Club WIAC hitherto entirely overlooked in art historical studies of the era This book will be of interest to students and researchers in art and cultural history gender studies and in sociological studies of pre War World War Britain

The Making and Breaking of the Australian Family Michael Gilding,2020-07-31 Once everyone knew what the family was It was something natural and without a history mum dad and the kids Divorce women in the workforce de facto relationships and the sexual liberation movements have fractured the old certainties Nowadays there is more talk about the family than ever even if no one is quite sure what it is anymore The making and breaking of the Australian family looks at the family in history It traces the shift from the household economy of the late nineteenth century to the child centred nuclear family of the mid twentieth century to the recent proliferation of households The book argues that the so called traditional family was a quite recent creation and that its fragmentation is obscured by new redefinitions of the family The making and breaking of the Australian family addresses the changing experiences of childhood parenting home neighbourhood work birth and sexuality It examines the expansion of the market and the state patterns of class mobilisation the reconstruction of masculinity and femininity and the creative strategies of ordinary people in everyday life This is a lively and accessible book which will prove a valuable reference for students of history sociology women s studies and Australian studies and will generate wide discussion amongst people concerned with family policy welfare and contemporary social issues
