The Representation of the Struggling Artist in America, 1800-1865 Erika Schneider, 2015-04-23 The Representation of the Struggling Artist in America 1800-1865 analyzes how American painters sculptors and writers active between 1800 and 1865 depicted their response to a democratic society that failed to adequately support them financially and intellectually Without the traditional European forms of patronage from the church or the crown American artists faced unsympathetic countrymen who were unaccustomed to playing the role of patron and less than generous in rewarding creativity It was in this unrewarding landscape that American artists in the first half of the nineteenth century employed the struggling or starving artist image to satirize the country's lack of patronage and immortalize their own struggles Through an examination of artists' journals letters and biographies as well as the development of art academies and exhibition venues this study traces the evolution of a young nation that went from considering artists as mere craftsmen to recognizing them as important members of a civilized society

Performance Anxiety in

Media Culture Steven Bailey, 2016-04-08 Performance Anxiety in Media Culture explores the culture of performance anxiety in the media saturated contemporary world. It uses comparative case studies including film, social media, and popular music to examine the ways that personal concern regarding self-presentation becomes transformed into shared cultural expressions through the use of media technologies. Three initial chapters are dedicated to exploring the work of Erving Goffman, Jacques Lacan, and Jean Baudrillard as critical for a thorough understanding of how implications of a range of recent transformations in the methods for staging social performances are staged and in the ways that they are experienced and interpreted by others. Three subsequent chapters explore diverse case studies in the culture of performance anxiety: the representation of such anxieties in recent French cinema, the appearance of them in the world of fashion-based outfit-of-the-day blogs, and the attempt to refine a more fixed social persona in the nostalgic culture of rockabilly music.
