The Arts And Their Interrelations:

The Arts and Their Interrelations Thomas Munro, 1967 The Arts and Their Interrelations is the first book of its kind. It did much to stimulate the present educational trend toward comparative surveys of the arts. This enlarged edition opens the way to further progress in the understanding of the arts from a standpoint of content, form, and function. Most books on the arts today are highly specialized, focusing on one art form, artist, style, or collection. By contrast, The Arts and Their Interrelations deals with all the arts: the visual arts, literature, music, theater, film, and industrial arts. Dr. Munro offers a theoretical explanation of these arts which is applicable to works of any place and period. The nature of each major art form of today is outlined, and comparisons are made with earlier art forms with respect to media and psychological materials, to forms, techniques, and processes employed, and to functions served in society. A concise historical sketch of the changing concepts of art and systems of classification since the time of Plato is also presented. From publisher's description

The Arts and Their Interrelations Harry Raphael Garvin, James M. Heath, 1979 This issue of the Bucknell Review studies the interrelations among the arts by exploring, comparing, and contrasting the treatment of the same subject matter by a poet, a composer, a painter, a novelist, a film director, and a sculptor. It is hoped that these essays will suggest some next steps in the exploration of the arts. Illustrated

Visual Arts: The arts and their interrelations, by T. Munro, 1961 The Orchestration of the Arts — A Creative Symbiosis of Existential Powers Marlies Kronegger, 2000-06-30 What is Art? This perennial question is forcefully thrown open by the present-day electronic expansion of its field and proliferation of arts. Toward the treatment of this great question with deepest philosophical underpinnings, this collection of studies means to lay a ground. It is presumed that art's transcendentality, the designs of the cosmos, might yield some of their mysteries while we investigate the Orchestration of the Arts, stretching into all main lines of the human creativity, literature, history, and encompassing the distinctive and yet symbiotically inclined music, song, painting, opera, drama, stage, decor, architecture, and ornament

The Chemical Synthesis of Vital Products, and Their Inter-relations Between Organic Compounds Raphael Meldola, 1904 The Representation of Dance in Australian Novels Melinda Jewell, 2011 This book is an analysis of the textual representation of dance in the Australian novel since the late 1890s. It examines how the act of dance is variously portrayed, how the word dance is used metaphorically to convey actual or imagined movement, and how dance is written in a novelistic form. The author employs a wide range of theoretical approaches, including postcolonial studies, theories concerned with class, gender, metaphor, and dance, and in particular Jung's concept of the shadow and theories concerned with vision. Through these variegated approaches, the study critiques the common view that dance is an expression of joie de vivre, liberation, transcendence, order, and beauty. This text also probes issues concerned with the enactment of dance in Australia and abroad and contributes to an understanding of how dance is translated into literature. It makes an important contribution because the study of dance in Australian literature has been minimal and this despite the reality that dance is prolific in Australian novels
