Field Guide to Albatrosses, Petrels and Shearwaters of the World Derek Onley, Paul Scofield, 2009-01-01
Famous for their size and elegance in flight albatrosses are familiar to anyone who has travelled through the southern oceans and are a flagship family of conservation concern. However albatrosses are just one of several groups of pelagic birds those that visit land only to breed and spend the rest of their lives far from the coast soaring from ocean to ocean in a never ending search for food. Mysterious and graceful these birds can present a formidable identification challenge to even the most experienced birder. This book provides the answer the first comprehensive guide to pelagic birds the albatrosses petrels shearwaters storm petrels and diving petrels. A total of 46 spectacular colour plates highlight key ID criteria of the birds in flight with close ups of diagnostic regions of the plumage. The plates are accompanied by accurate distribution maps while the sparkling text brings the world of these amazing birds to life. Several extremely rare species such as Beck's Petrel are illustrated for the first time while the New Zealand Storm petrel rediscovered as recently as 2004 is also included. The three parameterization schemes are one each for the boundary layer physics moist convection and heating due to solar and terrestrial radiations. These schemes are incorporated either singly or jointly into a rhomboidal 30 12 layer global spectral model for four day simulations using FGGE III a data as input. Evaluation and assessment are made on the basis of two kinds of global statistics mean and root mean square errors and on their magnitudes and distributions The statistics are generated for both the primary that is prognostic variables and supplementary variables such as zonal mean and zonal eddies energy densities The new moist convection scheme has been found to increase convective activity significantly and maintain it throughout the four day period It also warms and dries the middle troposphere but produces rainfall far in excess of the climatology The radiation parameterization has been found to cool the atmosphere and reduce its specific humidity It counterbalances enhanced heating and moistening brought about by the new boundary layer and moist convection schemes and eliminates the systematic warming of the old model
